Paper Trades Look for More Sales Ahead

Predict New Production High Of 32 Million Tons

BY SHEPHERD CAMPBELL
New York.—P—Some 5,000 paper industry officials, buoyed by a brighter outlook for their products, are steaming into town today for an intense, 5-day round of talks, toasts and trade gossip.

Paper experts figure production this year will leap ahead of 1958's record of 31,400,000 tons to a new high of between 32 million and 32½ million tons. Sales in 1959, the experts estimate, will hit a record $11 billion against $10½ billion last year.

The profit picture, though, is still clouded. In 1958, paper firms' earnings sagged more than 10 per cent below the $521 million cleared the year before. The decline in large measure reflected a lower operating rate.

But swifter sales and a higher operating rate this year may well boost profits, paper men say. Producers however, will have to fend off climbing costs which have cut into earnings.

The forecasts will be talked over at the 82nd annual convocation of the American Paper and Pulp association opening Sunday. From 41 states and Canada, the paper men are gathering to thrash over the industry's prospects and problems. They'll also dig into ways of streamlining U.S. ed-

8½-Inch Snow Blanket Covers Fox Cities Area

Traffic Slowed to Crawl, Most Students Get School 'Holiday'

An 8½-inch blanket of wet snow fell on the Fox Cities early today, reminding residents that winter is far from over.

Traffic on streets and highways was slowed to a crawl and many people found going easier on foot. Most schools were closed.

County and city crews were busy clearing thoroughfares of the sticky white stuff.

There were scattered power interruptions, the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company reported.

Clearing weather is reported for Tuesday.

Appleton's snow removal work got underway about 3 a. m. today when plows for hills were sent out and other plows were mounted on trucks.

By 4:30 a. m. the entire operation—18 trucks and three graders—was in motion. Primary streets were fairly passable by mid-morning.

Crews were expected to work until about 6 p. m. today, then go home for sleep and return about midnight. Director of Public Works Edwin J. Duszynski said.

Work Slow

When they return, some will be sent to remove snow from College avenue and Wisconsin avenue and the others to again plow out streets.

Work was slow, Duszynski said, because of the slippery surface. The three graders—one is down for clutch repair—had to be recalled to the street barn to put on chains.

Another factor in the slowdown, he said, was the large number of vehicles which became stuck in roadways and held up plows.

Two tractors and a jeep from the street department and a jeep and tractor from the park department started to clear city parking lots about 8:30 a. m. Work on the lot at Lawrence and Allen

Driver Killed Instantly in Train-Car Crash

Outagamie County Death Raises State Traffic Toll to 90

The third victim of train-car crashes in Outagamie county in eight days, Arlin M. Passehl, 24, of 5 N. Clinton avenue, Clintonville, was killed instantly at 11:45 p. m.

Arlin Passehl

Sunday on County Trunk D, seven miles south of New London. His death was one of four reported in the state during the weekend.

Passehl's car apparently skidded into the side of Soo Line train No. 28 on a crossing marked by signs only. Passehl's wife, Patricia, 23, slightly hurt with bruises, ran to a nearby farmhouse to summon aid. She and five others were not thrown from the car. Passehl died from a crushing skull fracture. Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said.

4 Others Hurt

Also injured were the Passehl's children, Randy, 2, possible skull fracture, bruises and cuts, and Rickey, 8 months, held at New London Community hospital for observation; Berwyn Ryckman, Sr., 54, route 3, Shawano, bruised right arm; his wife Marie, 52, bruises of the head

Cypriots Celebrate Release of Over 900 Political Captives

Nicosia.—P—Greek Cypriots celebrated widely as the British turned loose more than 900 political prisoners yesterday. Only two incidents marred the jubilation. The detainees had been held without trial under emergency regulations as suspected members of Eoka, here, said that with nearly five million jobless now the need for shortening the work week is obvious.

"It is perfectly clear that we are producing much more with much less people," said AFL-CIO President George Meany. "We must either reduce the work week or shoot some substantial portion of our working population."

Told that teamster boss James Hoffa came out yesterday in Miami Beach against shortening working hours now, Meany commented: "Hoffa is just unfamiliar with labor history."

Fly Tents, Food to Migratory Workers

Las Vegas, Nev.—P—An airlift of tents and food begins today for 700 migratory workers camped near a stream 65 miles northeast of here.

Gov. Grant Sawyer last night declared a state of emergency because the workers are without food or housing.

The workers came to the radish, onion and tomato fields at Moapa a month early because of a boll weevil invasion of cotton fields in Arizona. They are camped out without work waiting for the harvest.

Air national guard planes loaded army tents and the Red Cross, religious and civic groups organized food donation drives for the workers.

Asks Voice For Rest of Democrats

Washington.—P—Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) protested today that Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas runs the party program in the senate without consulting other Democratic senators.

"The typical Democratic senator has literally nothing to do with determining the legislative program and policies of this party in the senate," Proxmire said in a senate speech.

Although lauding the abilities and drive of Johnson, Proxmire demanded that the 64 Democratic senators be called together for a conference or caucus before major party decisions are taken on legislation.

Johnson In Texas

"The majority in the senate is generally responsible also to the majority of the nation," he said, "but the majority leader, under present conditions, is not."

Proxmire, referring to himself in third person according to senate tradition, said:

"Mr. President, the junior senator from Wisconsin, wasn't sent to this body to delegate his authority as a senator to any other senator no matter how able, wise, or good that senator may be."

Johnson is in Texas. He flew there with President Eisenhower Wednesday. Office aides said they did not know when he planned to return.

Proxmire said he plans a series of speeches on what he called the concentration of senate power.

Public Issue

"I think I can show in the course of these speeches that there never has been a time when power has been as sharply concentrated as it is today in the senate," he said. Proxmire said some party members might believe that the complaint he was voicing publicly was a matter that ought to be discussed privately behind closed doors.

Disagreeing, Proxmire said

Labor Seeks 35-Hour Week

Executive Council Wants Congress to Act Immediately

San Juan, Puerto Rico.—P—The AFL-CIO Executive Council called on congress today to take immediate steps to reduce the present 40-hour week to 35 hours, in the fair labor standards act.

In the 21 years since the nation established the 40-hour week, a council statement said, "America has made tremendous technological progress which justifies and makes possible further reductions in the work week."

The statement, adopted at emergency regulations as suspected members of Eoka, here, said that with nearly five million jobless now the need for shortening the work week is obvious.

"It is perfectly clear that we are producing much more with much less people," said AFL-CIO President George Meany. "We must either reduce the work week or shoot some substantial portion of our working population."

Told that teamster boss James Hoffa came out yesterday in Miami Beach against shortening working hours now, Meany commented: "Hoffa is just unfamiliar with labor history."

Start Talks In Moscow

British, USSR Chiefs Apparently Talk Berlin Deadlock

Moscow.—P—Prime Minister Macmillan and Premier Khrushchev met for two and a half hours in the Kremlin today and apparently discussed the disarmament deadlock between the west and the Russians.

Only one adviser—disarmament expert Con O'Neill—accompanied Macmillan. Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Ambassador Sir Patrick Reilly to the first formal conference of the British delegation's visit.

The official Soviet news agency in a brief dispatch after the meeting said that Macmillan and Khrushchev had "friendly conversations."

Formal Discussion

With Khrushchev at the del Rio, in west Cuba, along talk were First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, a recent visitor to the United States; Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko; Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily V. Kuznetsov; Jacob Malik, Soviet ambassador to Britain; M. P. Gerasimov, secretary of the presidium of the Soviet parliament, and Z. A. Logunov, deputy head of the foreign ministry's European department.

Macmillan and Khrushchev got down to formal Kremlin talks after a get-acquainted weekend in the country.

The British prime minister got second billing in the Moscow press, however. The communist party organ Pravda devoted top space to an editorial lauding the red army—which marked its 41st anniversary yesterday—and gave only brief mention to the Khrushchev-Macmillan parley.

Safe Driving Series Begins in Today's Edition

The Post-Crescent today begins a series of 12 concise "driving lessons," each illustrating a common driving hazard and recommending proper safety precautions.

Automobile accidents killed 37,000 persons in 1958, down 4 per cent from the preceding year but still the biggest single cause of accident fatalities in the United States.

The driving lessons to appear daily for the next two weeks are designed to remind all drivers of dangers present whenever a car is in motion. The first one appears on Page A-14.

Havana.—P—Hundreds tortured or killed... Scores executed in retribution...

They are figures, good round figures, and with repetition they come to have little meaning.

But behind them, getting down to individual cases, they have a shocking meaning. They are the fruit of a dictatorship and of a revolution which conquered it.

The full scope of the atrocities charged to Fulgencio Batista's police state may never be known.

Fidel Castro's revolutionary government estimates 20,000 Cubans—thousands of them in no way connected with the rebellion—were tortured and killed by Batista's national police and army.

9 More Cubans Executed by Firing Squads

Havana.—P—Revolutionary firing squads shot nine more former soldiers and policemen today, swelling the unofficial total of the war crimes executions to 325.

Among the dead were former Lt. Valeriano Dupeyron Silva and three troopers convicted of torturing and hanging four university of Havana students, sympathizers of the revolution, just four days before the New Year flight of Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

The four were shot at Pinar del Rio, in west Cuba, along

Stove Explodes, 4 Children Die

Branchville, N. J.—P—Four children huddled in bed in their family's house trailer were killed today when an oil stove exploded.

Mrs. Eileen Henderson, 26, mother of the children, was visiting in a nearby home at the time and was burned trying to rescue the youngsters.

Their father, Robert Henderson, was off at work at the time in a garage.

Henderson 28 rushed home from the garage in Newton and five firemen had to hold him back from entering the blazing trailer.

The trailer was attached to a one-room cottage in Frankford township in the north west portion of the state. Both were leveled by flames. Mrs. Henderson was taken to the hospital in fair condition.

State police said a space heater in the doorway connecting the cottage with the trailer blew up about 7:30 a. m.

Killed instantly were the four children in a bed nearby—Linda, 6, Robert, Jr., 5, William, 4, and Barrett, 2.

Mrs. Luce to be Envoy to Brazil

Rio de Janeiro.—P—It's practically official now Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce is the new U.S. Ambassador to Brazil.

A foreign office spokesman announced today the Brazilian government, responding to an inquiry from Washington, called its agreement at the weekend to appointment of Dr. Ralph E. Miller, 60, an experienced pilot, and Dr. Robert E. Quinn, 32, members of the Dartmouth Medical college faculty. They were last seen in their red and cream Piper Comanche Saturday afternoon.

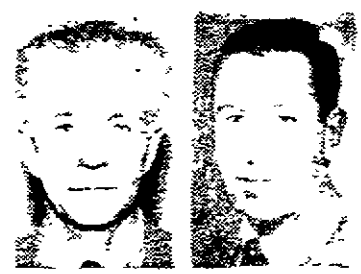

The Littleton search was prompted by at least a half dozen reports, search coordinators said, that a small plane had been heard there Saturday.

Mrs. Luce is to succeed E. O. Briggs, a career diplomat who has been ambassador to Brazil since July, 1956. There was no indication where he might be reassigned.

Minnesota Might Drop Primary Law

Predict Repeal of Rule Which Puts State, Wisconsin in U. S. Political Spotlight in Presidential Year

Post-Crescent News Service

St. Paul — Political leaders of Minnesota are predicting the state legislature will repeal the state's presidential primary law which, like that of Wisconsin, has provided an early test of the availability of aspirants for presidential nomination.

For several decades Minnesota and Wisconsin have been in the limelight of national politics in presidential election years because they have preferential primaries and direct election of national nominating convention delegates pledged to candidates. The fact that their primaries have been earlier than those in other states has also made this part of the country an early stumping ground for White House hopefuls.

But the Minnesota senate already has approved a bill to repeal the primary law, the lower house is expected to follow, and it is generally believed that Gov. Orville Freeman will sign it.

One of the reasons why the repealer is moving with unexpected speed is the fact that Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, leader of the Democratic-Farmer-Labor party which controls the state government, feels the present primary system is ineffectual. The Minnesota senior senator is widely regarded as a potential bidder for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination but he has some doubts about the usefulness of the Minnesota primary as a vehicle for his candidacy.

Greatest Weakness One of the greatest weaknesses in the law, Humphrey and other Democrats feel, is the opportunity the open primary gives for voters to influence the choice of the opposition party.

Thus Republicans might conceivably cross over into the Democratic column in order to embarrass Humphrey's chances.

A remedy might be a voter registration requirement, as in other states, but there apparently is no prospect for such an amendment in Minnesota. Such objections have also been made to the Wisconsin presidential preference primary law, but Wisconsin legislatures historically have also responded coolly to any suggestion for voter registration by party which would confine voting in each column to the declared followers of that party.

3 Gunmen Take Dough From Chicago Bakery

Chicago —P— Three men carrying guns barged into a northwest side bakery this morning and took all of the owner's dough—$2,500 in cash and $3,500 in checks—and left the baker's piles of dough.

The gunmen forced nine employees into a walk-in cooler, moved a safe 125 feet to the loading dock and put it into one of the bakery's delivery trucks.

Owner Abe Schachter, 45, told police the bakers forced open the cooler doors shortly after the gunmen left.

Mobilize the Entire Nation, General Asserts

Chief of Staff Says We're Playing Game Of Unlimited Poker

Washington—P—The United States has enough strength to resist force in Berlin if the nation is willing to mobilize in time, the army chief of staff has told congress.

"Mobilize the entire nation," Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor was asked.

"Yes," replied Taylor. "You cannot play around in this business unless you have a lot of blue chips in your pocket. This is unlimited poker."

Taylor's testimony to the senate disarmament subcommittee at a hearing Feb. 2 was made public over the weekend.

Army Censors Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), the subcommittee chairman, said the testimony was released only after the senate group won an argument with army censors. He said the censors finally restored 90 per cent of what had been red penciled.

Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) questioning Taylor about western ability to maintain its position in West Berlin, referred back to earlier testimony that Soviet bloc conventional forces greatly outnumber those of the west and said: "But I heard you make the statement a moment ago that as it stands now, you do not have any blue chips to give away."

"We do not, with standing forces," Taylor said, "but we have a mobilization base, in proved reserve forces, and so on." This apparently was a reference to reserve and guard forces in addition to regular army divisions. Taylor's mobilization remark came during discussion of the Russian threat to pull out of East Germany May 27, leaving it up to the communist East German government to say who may go through to West Berlin.

Attorneys Say No Personalities In Their Request

Milwaukee —P— Two attorneys have explained their request to the State Bar of Wisconsin to determine whether Atty. Gen. John Reynolds acted properly in the Prof. George Ball case was "strictly a matter of law, not a matter of personalities or politics."

William H. Lawler and John H. Schlosser of Milwaukee, denied Saturday that their request stemmed from "ulterior purposes" as stated by Reynolds.

Reynolds had refused to represent the board of state college regents in further state supreme court proceedings on Ball's ouster as a faculty member at Superior State college.

Reynolds referred to the Lawler-Schlosser petition for an investigation at the bar's midwinter meeting and termed it, "An effort to use the bar for ulterior purposes."

The petition was turned over by the board of governors of the state bar to its committee on ethical procedure.

State Man Arrested; Linked With Assault

Muskego Resident Nabbed in Seattle; Denies Attacking Waukesha Housewife

Seattle —P— The FBI arrested Wayne Eugene Peterson, 39, of Muskego, Wis., Sunday on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution in connection with an assault on a housewife.

Peterson, sought by Waukesha, Wis., authorities, offered no resistance and protested his innocence, said Donald Hostetter, special agent in charge of the Seattle FBI office.

Using New Name Peterson, working as a meatcutter in a supermarket, was unnamed. The FBI said he was using the name Gene Patterson.

Authorities also have charged Peterson with the attempted rape of a New Berlin, Wis., housewife and with battery and aggravated assault on the 33-year-old woman.

Police also want to question Peterson in connection with the rape-slaying of Mrs. Edna Mauch, Wauwatosa, Wis., last August. Peterson has no previous police record.

Peterson's presence in Seattle became known when he made telephone calls to Waukesha county authorities to disclaim any implication in the Jan. 12 rape attempt. Peterson did not say whether he would fight extradition. Authorities from Wisconsin were reported en route to Seattle. The FBI said Peterson told this story:

Look For Work He left his wife and son at their Muskego home last month to look for work. He found a job in Seattle and settled down. Only recently he learned that he was wanted in connection with the rape attempt in Waukesha early last month and for questioning about several other criminal assaults in the area.

The FBI said Peterson did not explain why he took an

Thomas Duncan, Former Political State Power, Dies

Washington —P— Thomas McFarlane Duncan, a Wisconsin politician once known as the state's "unofficial governor," died of cancer Sunday at the age of 65.

Gov. Phil La Follette appointed Duncan as his executive secretary in 1931 during his first term as the state's chief executive. Next to La Follette, Duncan became the most powerful political figure in Wisconsin.

On March 8, 1938, Duncan was arrested and charged with first degree manslaughter after the car he was driving was involved in a fatal collision. Duncan was convicted and sentenced to a term of one to two years in jail.

La Follette granted Duncan a full pardon after he served six months.

He is survived by his wife, the former Catherine Cody, now residing in Chicago; two sons and four grandchildren.

Duncan will be buried in Forest Home cemetery, Milwaukee.

Man Charged in Death Of Woman in Mexico Tijuana, Mexico —P— A Californian who owns a racing stable at Agua Caliente track near here has been charged with homicide in the death of a woman whose dismembered body was found near a highway.

Richard N. Thomas, 32, who is in custody here, denies any knowledge of the slaying. He owns a television repair shop in La Puente, a suburb of Los Angeles.

The woman's arms and legs —nearly severed—were found last week just south of this border town. Her torso was found 10 miles further south.

The head and hands are still missing.

Authorities say the woman possibly was an American, 30 to 35 years old.

Seek Motive For Slashing Of Mayor

Lured to Office, Beaten and Cut By Three Thugs

Greensburg, Ind. —P— Police said today they were at a loss for the motive of three thugs, who Mayor Sheldon Smith said lured him to his private office and slashed his face, hands and body.

The 39-year-old mayor was in fair condition at Greensburg Memorial hospital with "innumerable superficial cuts and a strained neck and back."

Officers said the mayor's spotless reputation weakened any personal revenge motive.

Sent Up Buddy Smith, who also serves as judge of the Greensburg city court, said the man who did the slashing Saturday night, while his companions held Smith, snarled:

"You sent up my buddy and you're going to pay for it."

Police were checking the court records. However, they were doubtful of finding a disgruntled defendant whose friends might have slashed the mayor.

Detective Sgt. Rolling Lacey pointed out that Smith cannot give a sentence of more than six months on the state penal farm.

"We can't come up with any leads until we get some reason for the attack," said Police Chief Warren Melick. "We're up against a blank wall."

They Were Strangers Smith, mayor for 10 years, said the three men were strangers, but said he had seen the razor blade wielder Saturday noon in a Greensburg restaurant. He said the thugs also had broken glass and a hatchet.

The mayor told police one of the men enticed him to his private tax accountant's office by telephone, saying he wanted help in preparing an income tax return. He gave the name of J. B. Patton, but Chief Melick said it probably was fictitious.

Smith called police before he collapsed and struck his head on a desk. He was slumped on both hands, the end of the nose, behind both ears, on the abdomen and on the right thigh. All the cuts were shallow and very even, officers said.

Dummy Space Capsule To be Launched Soon As Space Safety Check

Some Units Will Carry Animals; Push Plans to Send Man Aloft

Washington —P— Dummy space capsules—some of them carrying small animals—will be launched with a series of different missiles to make as certain as possible the first American spaceman will return safely to earth.

And the national aeronautics and space administration wants to be sure it can keep tabs on the capsules when they come back from space.

The surf off Cape Canaveral, Fla., would be the ideal spot for safe recovery of the capsules. But NASA wants to get ready for the possibility that some of them may end up far inland.

Fill Big Gap The agency wants to fill a big gap, in Texas, in the tracking station chain that will recover the capsules.

Price tag for filling the gap: $51 million.

NASA administrator T. Keith Glennan has told the senate space committee that amount will be needed to plug the gap with a radar, tracking and communications station at a location in southern Texas not yet selected.

Missiles which will launch the dummy capsules will be the army's short range Sergeant, medium range Redstone and intermediate range Jupiter and the air force's intercontinental range Atlas.

Before these firings, there will be test air drops of Mercury-type capsules from balloons and high-flying planes.

Launched from Cape A contract already has been awarded to McDonnell Aircraft company of St. Louis for design and development of 12 space capsules in which a man in a reclining position can be fired 100 miles or more into space to orbit the earth once, twice or three times.

The capsules will be launched from Cape Canaveral.

The man riding the first capsule into space will be chosen from a field of 110 men which will be narrowed down to 12 by the end of next month.

The last group of space volunteers—jet pilots from the various services—has gathered here for the tough screening process. They have been coming here this month in groups of 25 to 30, one group a week. From the 110, NASA will select 36 qualified volunteers, possibly by the end of next week. Further physical, mental and psychological tests will narrow the field to 12. The first Mercury Astronaut will be chosen from the group of 12.

Appleton's Music Man Seeger Lives Through Scores of Songs

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Carl G. Seeger of Appleton was born when "Silver Threads Among the Gold" burst upon America's tympanum, and he has stayed around in his music store to outlive that saccharine ballad and "Blue Suede Shoes," too.

Seeger, now 85 years old, is proprietor of the Meyer-Seeger Music company, which has occupied quarters for many years at 116 W. College avenue, and now is in temporary headquarters at 1109 W. Wisconsin avenue, Appleton.

Born in Stuttgart, Germany in 1873, Seeger's early life was dominated by music, and music lessons. At an early age he was playing in a band composed entirely of Seegers—brothers, uncles, cousins.

When, in America, the song of the day was "Custer's Last Charge," young Seeger in Stuttgart was marching and playing in an "Oompa-Oompa-Oompapapa" German band with pride and ability.

Young America, at this time now Nolan's Goat," still heard, was still being imitative of now and then, "Is Dolly European music, but a few Dead?" was being heard Americans were reaching out everywhere.

Seeger came to America in 1887 to visit his brother Henry, who lived and taught school (for 46 years) in Lebanon, near Hartford. Seeger remained with his brother for a 6-week "indoctrination" period, for he was only 14 years old. Then he went to an Ohio music school to get his degree, and on Jan. 3, 1903, he came to Appleton to teach at Zion Lutheran church school. Appleton was then a community of about 10,000.

man language newspaper, the Volksfreund.

Starting as a bookkeeper, young Seeger soon was elevated to a reportorial job, and then to the editor's. Meyers went off to Berlin as a foreign correspondent for all German language newspapers in the United States.

Imitates Europe

The music of America was still imitative of European models, but now it was growing up culturally, and it was marked by a rising level of musical competence. This change was due to music-loving immigrants, especially Germans, who organized many musical societies.

The Volksfreund sold pianos "on the side," and by 1915 Seeger decided to devote full time to music and to the sale of pianos and string instruments. America was singing and playing "such songs as "M-O-T-H-E-R," "Sweet Adeline," "The Neapolitan Love Song," "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree," "Row, Row, Row" and an improbable one with a title suggestive of today: "When A Fellow's on the Level With a Girl That's on the Square."

The big hit of 1900 had lasted for years and is still heard from time to time today. It was "I Can't Tell Why I Love You, But I Do" (Do-Do). Seeger was now a busy young businessman. Undoubtedly he enriched many families in the Fox river valley, for he "went on the road" to communities hereabout, to sell musical instruments. The store began to thrive.

Wisconsin's Carrie Jacobs Bond was soon to give America her sweet song, "Just A Wearying For You," and "A Perfect Day."

After Seeger wed a pretty German girl, he was invited to join his father-in-law, H. W. Meyer, then editor of a substantial circulation Ger-

"Love Me and the World Is Mine" and "All the World Will Be Jealous of Me" were the tunes of the day, and many of them were thumped out on Seeger's pianos. "You Tell Me Your Dream" was of a character for the songs of the period but the urban cities were being amused by the comic hit song, "Heaven Will Protect the Working Girl."

World War

"Oh, You Beautiful Doll," "Pony Boy," "Meet Me Tonight in Dreamland," "When You Wore a Tulip and I Wore a Big Red Rose," "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee" and

"Oh, How She Could Yack! Hack! Wick! Woo" was soon supplanted in popularity by the songs of the world war.

"There Were All Out of Step But Jim," "Keep Your Head Down Fritzie Boy," "Rose of No Man's Land," "Where Do We Go From Here, Boys?" and, as though in answer, "We're Going Over" seemed to be the songs for every man and woman.

By 1919, other war songs grew to popularity. Some of the better ones were "K-K-K-Katy," "All the World Is Waiting for the Sunrise," and "How Ya Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm" (After They've Seen Parade). The latter song was written by Sam Louis and Joe Young of Oshkosh.

Seeger was well established when the songs of the day — "When My Baby Smiles at Me," "Margie," "The Japanese Sandman," "The Sheik of Araby," and "Look for the Silver Linings" all broke out in the early 1920's.

Carefree Days

The happier, more carefree days after the war showed in the gayer songs, like (Not Much Money, Oh, But Honey) "Ain't We Got Fun?", "Three O'Clock in the Morning," "Tea for Two."

Seeger, who loves best his piano and his violin, favored classical music and the German lieder, took the songs of the day in stride, "You forget the pop songs," he said, smiling.

But many Americans did not, and still remember such songs as those of the 30's, like "Who Stole My Heart Away," "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain," "I've Got My Love to Keep Me Warm," "Isn't It a Lovely Day" (to be out in the rain!).

Through another series of war songs, Seeger's store had grown to be important in the community. He lived through the war period and then into the "Don't Fence Me In" period, which also saw "In My Arms," and "Pass That Peace Pipe" grow into popularity.

Son Carries On

Seeger, bright, gentle and courtly in the old world manner, now leaves much of the functions of his music store to his son.

But through all the years, from Custer through Barney Fagan's "My Gal Is a High Born Lady" which started a line of synopacted scores which led America into "rag-time" and thence to jazz, and finally to rock and roll, Seeger's music taste has stood fast.

Patent Issued for Perforating Unit

Paper Converting Machine company, Green Bay, has been granted a patent for a shear-cut perforating unit.

The patent is said to cover a new principle in the web perforating field. Flexing blades permit high speed operation in perforating toilet tissue, towels and other paper products.

The unit was designed not only to fit new machines built by the company but also to fit existing paper converting rewinders.

Women Hurt in Kimberly Crash

Kimberly — Mrs. Ferdinand Jacobs, 713 N. Sarah street, Appleton, suffered a bruise on her forehead and Mrs. Wilfred Kaufman, route 1, Menasha, received a finger contusion, when the car in which they were passengers was involved in an accident on E. First street and Lincoln avenue about 5 p.m. Saturday.

According to Kimberly police, a car driven by Leonard Van Orusow, 24, 2231 S. Lincoln street, was traveling south on Lincoln and skidded and struck the rear of the car driven by Wilfred Kaufman, 50, traveling east on First.

ler Down Our Rain Barrel," "Break the News to Mother," "After the Ball is Over" — none of these stirred music-man Carl G. Seeger.

Relaxing in his Appleton home, Seeger grinned and confessed that his favorite composers were Schubert and Schumann, and his favorite song is still "Die Forellen."

Committee Favors State Grants for Mental Health

The state legislative committee felt that states with experience in compulsory insurance have discovered that would increase appropriate while coverage diminishes.

In other action, the committee favored a bill to extend daylight saving time to coincide with nearby states. Other would provide grants-in-aid to states continue daylight saving for local treatment through October, in Wisconsin, it ends in September.

The committee also favored a bill which would restrict assembly bill which would lower the voting age to 18 and noted it opposes government regulation of business opening meetings of agencies to the enhance the beauty of Wisconsin roads.

Fox Cities Buried by 8½ Inches of Snow streets was extremely difficult because of the number of overnight parkers. All other lots were bare of cars.

Three sanitation department trucks were ordered in capacity to pick up broken branches. The number of broken tree limbs, Duszynski said, was about the same as after a heavy wind storm.

Two Accidents

Only two accidents were reported in the city, police said. Outagamie county highway sanding crews began working about 12:30 a. m. today, with the department's 50 plows out by 2:30 a. m. Within three hours all the major state highways and county trunks had morning, although Appleton schools were expected to open this afternoon.

Transportation was a major problem. Towing services and garages were working to capacity answering calls from patrons mired in the snow. Taxis, answering calls said, was about 200 per cent over the normal load, were experiencing much the same difficulty as the private motorist. All vehicles were in service but most were running behind schedule.

Close to Schedule

Buses from the Fox River Bus Lines were running as close to schedule as possible this morning, but ran into most difficulty on the south side where a few got stuck and had to be shoveled out. Early school buses went out before the announcement of school closing was made. Drivers got to the schools only to find the buildings closed, then had to transport the youngsters back home again. Chicago and North Western trains were reported operating on schedule this morning and Greyhound buses were running close to schedule.

No Damage

No line damage was reported by the Wisconsin Telephone company. Lines were overloaded with local calls. The chief operator asked that patrons be patient because of the calling load and shortage of operators.

The Wisconsin Michigan Power company reported several wires down this morning but service usually was restored in about an hour. Snow-laden branches, cracking off trees and falling onto the wires, caused all of the breakages, the company says.

Downed Wire

Service to 250 customers was interrupted at 7:10 a. m. by a downed wire at 1620 N. Morrison street. The line was in order by 8:20 a. m.

Another broken wire along the north shore of Lake Winnebago affected 125 customers. It was reported down at 6:35 a. m. and service was restored at 8:15 a. m.

Another major wire went down on W. Wisconsin avenue at 8:50 a. m. affecting 150 customers. It was back in operation in 40 minutes.

About 75 individual service wires servicing homes in Appleton also were down and by 10 a. m. all but 25 were back in service. About the same number of homes were affected by downed individual wires in Neenah-Menasha. A transmission line servicing Dundas, Sherwood, Hilbert and Harrison was out of operation for 18 minutes.

Crews Out

All power company crews were out this morning making repairs.

In the Fox villages and Kaukauna crews also are cleaning up downed limbs and branches, along with plowing out streets.

In Kaukauna all schools but St. Mary grade school were in session. The parochial schools in Kimberly were closed but the public schools were open. All schools in Little Chute were closed.

An added difficulty facing

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, right, in style with a gray fur hat, reviews the honor guard on hand at Moscow's airport to welcome him to the Russian capital. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev accompanies the British statesman who flew from London for talks aimed at easing east-west tensions. A Russian interpreter, center, follows the two leaders.

the issue "is very much the public's business."

"The public has a right to sit in on a full critical discussion of who exercises this power, how and why," he said.

A year ago, the paper producers were fretting about the gathering storm clouds of the recession. Now with the trade winds blowing more favorably, they're concerned with opening up new markets and keeping pace with demand.

The giant industry's outlook, while not yet rosy, nonetheless is bright. Right now, paper mills are running at 87.6 per cent of capacity against 85.5 per cent a year ago. What's more, their capacity is greater this year.

Besides pondering these and other problems at this week's convention, the papermen will hear a top-level panel discuss means of strengthening the nation's education and research.

Panelists Listed

Headlining this section of the program will be Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, vice president of Arthur D. Little, Inc.; Jean Paul Mathew, president of the University of Massachusetts; and Gen. Donald N. Yates, commander of the air force's missile test center at Cape Canaveral, Fla. The discussion will be moderated by John G. Strange, president of the Institute of Paper Chemistry, Appleton.

Delegates also will listen to talks on Europe's common market by such speakers as C. P. Auer, president of United States Paper Exporters Council, Inc., New York, and on materials by such men as W. L. Thornton, Jr., traffic manager of Kimberly-Clark corporation, Neenah.

The crux of the convention, however, will rest in the meetings of the APPA's divisional associations representing various segments of the paper industry. One, the Writing Paper Manufacturers association, convening for here five months ago when the 98th year, is the country's oldest national trade association.

Johnson's Powers Hit In Proxmire's Speech

had been held this and last year, he said, and they brought no discussion of party policies or action—only a perfunctory reelection of Johnson and other party leaders without objection.

No Discussion

He said the two conferences listened to speeches by Johnson that previously had been released to the press and there was no discussion of the party business or program.

This January, Proxmire went on, Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.) was reelected president pro tem, or regular presiding officer when the vice president is away, and then:

"The president pro tem (Hayden) then declared that the majority leader (Johnson), his assistant (Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana), and the secretary of the conference (Sen. Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., of Missouri) had done a fine job last year, and without objection was elected again."

This took about 2½ minutes, Proxmire said, "and senators had surrendered for another year their right and duty to determine the Democratic party's policies and program."

Contending all authority stems from the party conference, and that there should be frequent meetings, Proxmire said:

"Without such a caucus we as Democratic senators (not only) have immensely stepped up the horsepower and speed of this streamlined senate automobile," he said, "but we have tossed away the road map so that we are never sure where we are being taken."

Blames Beating On Employers

Labor Organizer Says Attack Was Anti-Union Measure

Tenafly, N.J.—P—Labor organizer Sol Greene says the beating he got was a "measure of desperation on the part of non-unionized employers to try to forestall inevitable unionization."

Greene, 44, has been an organizer for the International Ladies Garment Workers union for more than 17 years. Three or four men jumped on him Friday night as he stepped from a bus near his home. As result of the going over they gave him 18 stitches had to be taken in his scalp.

He pointed the finger at non-unionized employers yesterday, when newsmen asked him to explain the beating.

Police were not notified of the incident until Saturday noon when a union lawyer telephoned them.

Police Chief Chester D. Campbell said Greene vetoed a suggestion to tell authorities earlier, and quoted him as remarking that "this is one of the things I have to put up with in my job."

Greene and his family came here five months ago when he was named assistant general manager of the union's New York joint dress board.

Efforts of Burglars In Vain, They Find

Kansas City —P—Burglars entered a paint store here Saturday night and knocked the combination off a safe. That released tear gas which chased them out for a while.

Returning, they dynamited the safe open. It was empty.

Besides that, said store manager Harold Swafford, it wasn't locked.

Little Chute workers was a water main break in the 1900 block of E. Main street. The area also had a main break last week.

Main state and federal highways were open this morning in Waupaca and Calumet counties, but crews had not completed opening county and town roads.

The opened highways were reported extremely slippery and driving was hazardous.

No Buses

No school buses were running. Public schools in Chilton were open, but the low attendance forced dismissal by 11 a. m. today. In New London, parochial schools were holding classes, but public schools were closed.

The heavy snow caused some trouble with power lines when some feeder and service lines were pulled down in both counties. The trouble was minor, company spokesmen said.

The General Telephone company in Calumet county, however, was hit hard. Some 20 to 30 poles were down and lines were broken by the snow. The toll line between Brillion and Hilbert was out.

Orrin Meyer, Calumet county agent, announced the 14th annual boar and gift sale at Chilton had been canceled.

There were no accidents reported to either sheriff, although there were cars in the ditches.

Rural and parochial schools in the Neenah-Menasha area Jerke explained that the and Winnebago county were warm weather melted the closed but the public schools in Neenah and Menasha were open. Neenah's school buses went out at 11:30 a. m. to pick up rural high school children late in the season, Jerke said, to rebuild them.

Water department crews were undecided when to start the long job of shoveling fire hydrants free of snow. Commission Chairman James B. Wagg asked householders to keep the hydrants in mind when they shovel walks and driveways.

3 Fire Calls

Appleton firemen had three weekend calls, two false alarms and a flooded oil burning hot water heater, none of which came after the snow started to fall.

Appleton Dog Officer Walter C. Weber had a spot of luck. His only call sent him to the police station, rather than on a wild chase through huge drifts.

Night classes at the Appleton vocational and adult school will be held as scheduled, Carl Bertram, director, announced.

Children's dancing classes were the only Appleton recreation department activities canceled today. Recreation Director Elmer W. Grover said.

Ice Rinks Closed

All ice rinks were ordered closed Sunday for the rest of the season. Park Supt. Harold been plowed once and crews began their second round. Highway commissioner Clarence Brownson said salt is being put on heavily-traveled roads to cut into the compacted snow. By tonight, he expects the snow to be bladed off the roads.

Secondary Roads

On the secondary roads the snow has not been compacted and crews can blade off the shopery surface. This morning there was some drifting on east-west roads, but it is expected to end as the temperature rises.

Townships are shoveling and have not been plowed. Brownson expects his crews to get to these roads after completing the main arteries today.

Too Late to Correct Bow Legs; Youth Told to Stop Worrying

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am a boy of 16. My legs are bowed from the knees down and this causes me quite a bit of worry. Is there any way to improve the condition? — V. B."

I'm going to have to say no, as I've said before. The bones Dr. Molner have set in this shape, and I write as "gospel" It isn't there is no known way of changing them now. Still, I don't think you have cause for greatest worry. Lots of people have bowed legs — including, of my own acquaintance, one all-American quarterback and one all-Big Ten halfback.

Early this winter I made a brief reference to bow legs when a "Mrs. A. D." asked if there was anything she could do for her.

The upshot of that was a letter which follows.

Another letter of us read your column and "take it for gospel" that I feel you should go into this matter.

Most babies you know have bowed legs. They straighten out of bow legs further. It would be horrible if some poor child only to went through life with bow legs when something can be done. Your answer would have a mother believe it's hopeless.

For occasional instances, "Four of our seven children like Mrs. S. D.'s, in which there is a family trait of this Sprints (a pair of shoes with kind, action can be taken an iron bar holding them in' Infants and young children have very soft, pliable bones.

Indeed, some native tribes, for reasons not known to me, bind the heads of infants to change the shape of the skull.

But by teenage, or adulthood, it is much too late. The bones of a slate of officers for the spring election will highlight business at the annual caucus.

Eye Trouble

"Dear Dr. Molner: My age of the Town of Vandae Broek is 80. My eyes were giving me discomfort and an eye doctor said there was inflammation in them, and gave me an ointment. I failed to ask what caused the inflammation. I am out in the sun quite a lot but always wear a hat that shades my eyes. Could it be too much sunshine? — S. C."

This is by no means a rare ailment, but it isn't from too much sunshine. It may be a nutritional or vitamin deficiency which too often occurs as we get along in years. Vitamin A may help.

On Childbirth

MRS. H. L.: There was a time when it was widely assumed that once a Caesarean had been performed, it was mandatory that all subsequent births be by that method. Extensive studies in the last few years have shown that this is not necessarily true. It depends on the reason for the original Caesarean. Quite a few women have had several children by normal delivery after having had a Caesarean. (Copyright, 1959)

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Madison— The Democrats are starting to show their resentment about the Republican attacks upon the new budget policy proposed by the Nelson administration.

The party press and more significantly, perhaps, some of the speeches of the subordinate administration spokesmen strongly suggest that the carefully executed and planned Republican campaign is beginning to draw blood.

Wyngaard

Lt. Gov. Phileas Nash, for example, the other day solemnly informed a party meeting in Racine that one of the reasons why his party is in trouble with budget making is the fact that the Republicans had "dissipated" the "surplus."

Yet it is on the record, in the reports of the budget office and in the address of Gov. Nelson to the legislature, that the exceedingly dubious "balance" of the Nelson one year budget exists only because it proposes to expend every last penny of the admitted "surplus" from the Thomson administration that will amount to nearly $9,000,000.

DANGEROUS GROUND
This is perilous ground for the Democratic apologists and publicists to tread.

It will be the best signal to the Republicans that their shots have reached the target, and are hurting. Almost surely it will inspire them to continue the attack, at a time when Nelson and the Democrats had publicly hoped for a reasonable state of harmony and collaboration on what is admittedly a difficult fiscal situation.

It will also invite more detailed examination and reflection about the facts of the situation from the neu-apparently slow pupils in the third grade go on to win Phi Beta Kappa keys.

A great part of the educational process is attitude. When pupils discover that there is as much emphasis placed upon scholastic achievement as there is upon touchdowns; when the ability to qualify for tough subjects becomes as important as making the prom court; when teachers and parents come to realize that it is no more undemocratic to publish honor rolls than it is to let the best quarterback play on the team; when a student doing his best and progressing toward his goals whatever his ability can feel that he is getting somewhere, then there is definite progress in the public school system.

trials, including sensitive taxpayers, which can't help the Democrats much politically.

For the more the budget situation is examined, the more doubtful it must appear. Gov. Nelson's claim of "balance" for example, rests upon his assumption that the legislature will pass $9,000,000 worth of what he calls tax "revisions." That tax package has been indifferently reported thus far. The press tends to accept news sources at their word. But that $9,000,000, so casually described as a package of "revisions", is the equivalent of a 10 per cent surtax, for example.

MOREOVER
The lieutenant governor evidently used the word "dissipate" in the sense of "waste."

But if there was "waste" in the Republican budgets, it might be assumed that the new Democratic administration would be eager to expose it and to get rid of it. It would be extremely good politics, at a time when every news dispatch from Madison tells the anxious taxpayer that he is fated for still more payments to the state treasury.

But there is nothing like that on the record. Indeed, Gov. Nelson has gone to great pains to explain that he is holding state services at their present level — because he cannot find the money to enlarge them. He would like to do so, he has said regrettably and repetitively. Moreover, he has offered some handsome increased appropriation recommendations for some favorite services, some that appeal to him especially. There is hardly proof of "dissipation" there.

The fact is, for the sideline taxpayer who may be confounded by these contradictions, that this is partisan by-play with which the politicians hope to gull the public.

The situation in the state treasury would not have been a great deal different had Thomson won office for the first time last fall, and Nelson been the governor who was defeated last November. Government is out-running the tax base. It is a simple fact and demonstrable. But the considerations of party competition are such as to obscure it most of the time.

Housing Codes Help Improve Whole Areas

From The Pensacola, Fla., Journal

Many cities are increasing enforcement of housing codes as a means of improving deteriorated areas and of preventing blight rather than attempting to clear out and redevelop whole areas. This was emphasized in an article in Public Management recently.

Housing codes have been stimulated by requirements of the federal urban renewal program. Such a code is one of the requirements for government financing of housing for families displaced by the proposed interstate highway spur into Pensacola.

Such a code was proposed to the City Council and has been pending for some time without action. The urban renewal committee of the Greater Pensacola Chamber of Commerce recently decided to make inquiries into the status of the proposed code and to discuss it with the city planner and city manager.

Through such a code much could be accomplished in improving houses by private owners rather than attempting city condemnation.

Macmillan Selects Good Time to Accept Russian Bid for Visit

From The Calgary, Alberta Herald

Prime Minister Macmillan has chosen a particularly good time to accept a long-standing invitation to visit Russia.

This is the slack season in terms of international crises. The Berlin situation continues to smoulder and contains a threat of developing into something by May. But that is some weeks off. It is not at all unlikely that other parts of the globe along the East-West cold war frontier will make trouble with the passing of the winter season.

But, at the moment, there is no sense of urgency or atmosphere of crucial anxiety affecting East-West relations. Thus there is an opportunity for the British and Russian leaders to discuss the whole range of differences underlying the present potentially dangerous world situation.

One thing which could forestall, or at least minimize the threat of brush-fire or more serious clashes of arms this year, would be the adoption of a more reasonable, less aggressive tone by the Soviet leaders.

The hope may be ventured that Mr. Macmillan may be able to persuade Premier Khrushchev and his colleagues to do this.

The British leader is as capable a man for such a task as anyone could ask for. He is knowledgeable and personable. He has displayed strength and ability in handling the affairs of his country and has gained respect abroad as well as at home for his accomplishments since taking over the prime ministership two years ago at a time when British fortunes and prestige were at a low ebb. His experience as well as his personality qualify him to talk face to face with Mr. Khrushchev on terms of international equality.

This visit is in a sense, a return of the visit paid by Mr. Khrushchev and Mr. Bulganin to Britain in 1956. More important, it is a personal meeting between two leaders at a time when the international situation shows increasing signs of settling out of hand as it did in the days just before the Second Great War.

The more visits back and forth between leaders of the free and Communist hemispheres the better. There is no real animosity between the peoples of the various countries. The threats to peace are manageable only by governments. Therefore the more friendly intercourse there is between governments the more likelihood there is of eliminating the suspicions, fears and animosities which tend to lead almost inevitably to war.

Green Bay to Aid Brighter Students

From The Green Bay Press Gazette

The new superintendent of schools in Green Bay is showing a clear understanding of one of the major problems facing American education today: that of keeping up the standards for the capable students and offering challenging material to the gifted. In their worthy efforts to assist the problem and average students, many educators have neglected these future leaders.

Supt. May would like to discover the superior pupil as far down as the first grade and give him encouragement and even pressure toward his goal. Happily Mr. Way does not limit such encouragement to the student who shows aptitude in mathematics and science, and this is thoroughly in the tradition of American educational philosophy which aims to discover and assist the potential of every student, not merely those whose abilities may be in fashion or even needed by the nation.

Of course, the practical application of such an aim is an extremely difficult matter. There are youngsters who mature slowly and then all at once; there are those who appear stupid simply because they are bored; there are those who have the social poise of the gifted with little behind the easy facade. All the tests and, statistics devised cannot surely separate the gifted youngster from his average brethren. For this reason, rigid tests at certain ages as are used in many European countries, have been discouraged by educators who have seen

John Dey Heads Pioneer Society

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Feb. 28, 1880.

Pursuant to notice duly given, pioneers of Outagamie County met at Union hall over C. C. Wayland's store, Feb. 21st, 1880.

John Dey, having received the largest number of votes, was declared president for the ensuing year. Charles Wolcott was elected vice president. Elihu Spencer was elected secretary and John Dey was chosen secretary.

John W. Dey, William J. Dey, William Briggs and Henry Deatree were elected as the executive committee.

About 75 pioneers partook of the substantial dinner. At 2 o'clock the meeting was called to order and Dr. A. B.

Randall delivered the opening address. H. L. Blood then was called on and responded by reading a paper on the history of his recollections of the first settlement of Appleton and Outagamie county. B. B. Murch presented a paper as did Dr. Randall and Charles Wolcott.

Point System for Car Drivers Generally Good

The application of the point system to the enforcement of traffic laws in Wisconsin has received some high praise and it is generally acknowledged to be a good feature. However, as with all such good things, it is not all good. In recent months many insurance men have pointed out the number of hit and run drivers has increased because of the fear motorists have of losing their driver's licenses. On the other hand, the system has made the highways safer because other drivers have translated that fear into better conduct and safer driving.

The latest person to complain about this law is John Kitzke, an assistant city attorney of Milwaukee. Kitzke agrees the law is generally good but he thinks it is more inflexible than necessary and has some suggestions for revising it. He points out that a violator loses a certain number of points for each type of offense, no matter how much or how little damage was caused. This means, he says, that a driver may lose as many as six points in an accident that may have involved only $25 in damage, but since the driver has only 12 points to lose in one year he can afford only one such experience. Thus the law enforcement agencies often find violators are going to court to fight charges they ordinarily would admit. Moreover, he says they often will appeal a case which in the past would have been settled and the fine paid. All of these things place a heavy burden upon the enforcement of the law.

He believes it would be possible to speed the cases through the court and at the same time keep the highways safe if courts had some discretion in the number of points to be surrendered upon a conviction.

It is possible under the present law for a driver to lose his license for two unfortunate occurrences which could cost him 12 points each but which brought no danger to anyone.

We think there will be strong opposition to placing the point assessment in the hands of the traffic courts. However, it is possible there would be an agreement on giving the court discretion in cases where the driver lost 12 points in any series of accidents that did not indicate an intentional violation or recklessness in the operation of the car. On the other hand, it might also be a wise provision to make it mandatory that the court revoke the license of any driver whose record indicates that he is accident prone; one purpose of the law apparently is to eliminate the person who simply goes on having one accident after another.

Let Us Talk About the Weather

Wisconsin is experiencing its most severe winter of record, according to the figures of the weather bureau. There has been much suffering and many deaths and endless conversations about it but there may have been many other seasons just as severe even though dry statistics do not show them.

The weather bureau merely counts the number of days on which the thermometer registered below zero and the winter with the most such days is supposed to be the coldest. The winter of 1912 has held the record for a long time with 44 days. Now it seems that 1959 is about to march off with the title but it is not really important whether it comes out with one day more or one less than the 1912 record. Only the statisticians will know the difference.

Most conversation about the weather is inane and gets nowhere. But occasionally there is a fellow who has been studying the weather statistics ready with an opinion that 1946 was the real winter and the coldest since 1912. This may stir the memory of someone who remembers severe discomfort in 1923 or some other winter in the dim past. He is foolish if he mentions it for the fellow who threw out the 1946 date may have a pocketful of statistics fresh from the weather bureau ready to prove that 1946 was the coldest. There were 33 or 36 sub-zero days bringing it close to the all-time record, he will show. At the same time he will point out that the year 1923 had only a dozen sub-zero days in February and that the coldest day in January was a mere 2 below zero. The fellow who remembered that he suffered a frozen nose and ears and nearly lost his feet in 1923 may be stopped by the statistics but he will be unconvinced for good reasons.

During the past week several sub-zero days have been added to the 1959 total which did have an hour or two of below zero weather just before dawn but which were in fact beautiful mild winter days during the daylight hours.

And now the United States Army comes to the rescue of those who may remember a severe winter which doesn't fit into the statistics. The army, after painstaking medical research on how to keep troops warm in the field, has learned that a temperature of 27 with a 35-mile wind is equivalent to 40 below zero in human suffering and a temperature of 45 with a 5-mile wind is equivalent to 11 below zero.

And so when the old-timer begins, "I remember that winter back in 1891 —" don't be too sure he is wrong even if the statistics from the weather bureau fail to bear him out. Even if the thermometer was reporting 10 above zero at the time of his tale, if there was a 35-mile wind the weather was the equivalent of 30 below zero. Weather reports from the years past based on memory may be somewhat exaggerated, but it must be apparent that the cold statistics do not present an honest picture particularly when it comes to telling just how the weather felt to the people who experienced it.

Hope for All the World

Every once in a while, amid the darkness of much of the diplomatic dealings around the world, comes an astonishing burst of intelligence. Such was the announcement from Zurich recently that the bitter warfare on the island of Cyprus might be ended with agreement with all but the most extreme partisans.

Four-fifths of the people on Cyprus are of Greek origin and they have been demanding "enosis" or union with Greece. Turkish residents and officials in Turkey have insisted upon "partition or death." The British, who have ruled the unsettled island since 1878, have repeatedly said they would "never" relinquish sovereignty. And yet, due to the meetings in Zurich, the Republic of Cyprus, with both Greek and Turkish soldiers temporarily stationed on the island and with air bases available to the British, may come into existence.

Premiers Konstantin Karamanlis of Greece and Adnan Menderes of Turkey fought out suggested provisions for the creation of such a republic over the conference tables in Zurich. The British, fearful that the concessions might be lost with time and too much talk, quickly invited all participants to London along with Archbishop Makarios, the leader of the enosis forces whom the British exiled from Cyprus in 1956. Menderes almost miraculously survived a plane crash in England which took 12 lives. Makarios has conceded that the Cypriotes might accept independence rather than union. Even the possibility of a plebiscite on the island to determine its fate may be no handicap to eventual agreement. The Cypriotes have lived long enough with terrorism and reprisals to welcome an honorable chance for peace.

There will be explosions in Cyprus even if the formation of a republic goes through without violent opposition. The soldiers of three nations do not easily forget past mistakes and terror. There are families with martyrs, lifelong hatreds, and certainly there will be advocates looking for glory.

But the first really firm step has been taken toward a solution of a problem that loomed insoluble only a few weeks ago. Cyprus may be added to the record of battles won through negotiation, honorable concessions and the dedicated will of the people involved for peace and justice.

Wayne Morse of Oregon Called Modern Scrooge

From The Chicago Tribune

If one were seeking an acceptable substitute for Scrooge, he would need go no further than the terrible tempered Democratic senator from Oregon, the Hon. Wayne Morse. Morse previously had just about reduced his circle of friendship to one person — Sen. Richard Neuberger, his Oregon Democratic colleague — when he decided that that was one too many and blew Neuberger off with a barrage of well chosen epithets.

That left Sen. Morse isolated except for dependents and retainers, one of whom was D. F. Pickert, 66, who for 25 years had been a part time caretaker at the Morse farm at Eugene. As a Republican, Mr. Pickert fell afoul of the senator when he expressed a mild opinion that Eisenhower had qualifications and personality traits suited to the office of president.

Sen. Morse summarily fired his elderly helper, stating that Pickert had "not been loyal to my friendship." This thought was embellished by a further one: "I have found from experience that when one has such strong differences with my political views which you expressed to others, loyalty and friendship is not a word used."

This would seem to constitute a standard that whatever Morse thinks has to be right. We are sure that the senator would deny that intellectual arrogance of this sort is expected of those with the totalitarian outlook of Khrushchev of Russia.

Among the other curiosities of this affair is that Sen. Morse is a last ditch opponent of "right to work" laws, although he does not cherish independence of action among his own serfs, and that, while he is a clamorous advocate of legislation to hike the federally enforced minimum wage law to $1.25 an hour, he paid Pickert only $1 an hour.

New Forces Formed By Dulles' Illness

Groups Merge; Nixon Viewed As Chief Political Agent

BY WILLIAMS S. WHITE

Washington — The decline of one power position within any administration is followed, in the physical law of politics, by a corresponding rise of one or more other power positions.

John Foster Dulles has been taking all in all, the strong man of the Eisenhower team. Now, in his grave illness, the power structure within the Eisenhower administration is shifting basically amid straws in the wind—all over the field of government and not merely in foreign affairs.

There are two merging new forces, and they are cooperative, not rival, groups. They might be called the Anderson group and the Nixon group. The first revolves around Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson. The second, of course, is led by Vice-President Richard M. Nixon.

Returns From California
Nixon has just returned from a brisk visit to his native California in which he had obvious success in rallying fellow Republicans from the clammy defeatism resulting from last November's elections. He has come back, amid straws in the wind (polls and the like) suggesting that Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York still has a long way to go to take the 1960 presidential nomination away from him.

Finally, the vice president has returned ready, willing and able to take up an even larger share of responsibility in directing the national Republican party.

No one in the administration, is talking openly of the new lines of authority now developing in Dulles' absence. There is, no formality to this fresh pattern of actual power. Indeed, there is genuine desire on every hand to believe, as the president himself believes, that Dulles is far from through as the directing head of foreign policy.

But even under the most favorable prospects for Dulles' illness and his continued ability to control foreign affairs, this much is all too obvious: he cannot possibly continue to contribute to the inner stability of the administration over the whole broad scope of its work, quite apart from foreign affairs, as he has done so long.

The administration is likely now to broaden its field of action and assume responsibility for practically every part of the internal, or house-keeping, conduct of the administration.

The Nixon circle may be expected to take on an even larger mandate. Nixon for years has been the president's chief political agent in dealings with congress on all domestic issues.

Nixon Political Agent
Now, he will also act as chief political agent with congress on foreign issues as well—a task that Dulles has been doing. This Nixon must do even if, happily, Dulles' stout heart should continue to make his replacement as secretary of state unnecessary. Should the appointment of another secretary become necessary, the vice president's practical responsibilities would become nothing short of immense.

Then he would become, in fact, a kind of super secretary of state over whoever was appointed to that post. For, as Dulles himself has so clearly shown, a successful secretary of state must carry congress—even though it sometimes be a reluctant congress—with him even before he carries the allies with him.

At this late stage of the game, no possible successor to Dulles could hope to catch up with all our gravely complicated affairs throughout the world while simultaneously creating the necessary personal position with congress.

The Law and You:

Says Contracts Should be Written to be Enforced

Everybody rightfully gets eloquent over our freedoms of speech and religion, but few do so over the right of contract.

Contract suggests a stuffy document full of "whereas." Yet every person has made hundreds of contracts. He buys groceries, hires a baby sitter, subscribes to a paper. All of these are contracts.

A contract is merely an enforceable agreement between two or more parties to do or not to do something.

Most Not Written

Most contracts are not in writing. When you tell the gasoline station attendant to "fill 'er up," you've made yourself a binding contract to pay for the gas.

But some contracts by state law must be in writing to be enforced, for instance, contracts to sell land.

Even if the law does not call for a given contract to be written, it is prudent to write out the terms. Word of mouth contracts are hard to prove, easy to forget, and make for misunderstandings and hard feelings.

Remember in writing a contract to put it all in writing, every promise or provision. Don't be led astray by such remarks as, "We don't have to put that in, it's understood anyway."

Written Words Important

If you have to sue, the court will look only at written words, and only in rare cases will it allow you to prove that important provision by evidence outside the document.

Don't sign a blank contract. See that all its terms and requirements are fully understood and that they are written in black and white. Never rely on the other person's say so. Above all, don't let anybody rush you or say that you don't need to read what you are signing. Nobody can do much for you after you've signed. But asking questions before you sign an important paper can help you avoid trouble.

(The State Bar of Wisconsin offers this column to inform, not to advise. Facts may change the application of the law.)

Ernie Kovacs Emcee For Visit to Circus

ABC-TV Slates 'Cheyenne' for Mondays
When Clint Walker Returns Next Fall

BY JINGO
Ernie Kovacs, the whimsical comedian, will be the host for ABC-TV's hour visit with Ringling Brothers circus on March 9. He evidently found his hilarious experiences with an elephant on "GE Theater" a week ago pleasant enough work to deserve an encore.

Clint Walker's "Cheyenne" show will move to Monday nights when he returns to the role for ABC-TV next September. Latest word from Hollywood is that he will appear in only 13 episodes next season. If so, his fans, Jingo included, won't be satisfied. "Sugarfoot" and "Bronco" will alternate in the old Tuesday night spot.

Warner Brothers, producer of most of the big shows on ABC-TV—including "Maverick" and "Cheyenne"—will make an hour adventure series called "The Alaskans" for ABC-TV. Set in the Yukon and Kootenai regions in 1898, it'll feature two fortune-seekers who traipse through the gold camps. No casting yet. Nor a place in the program lineup.

The welterweight title bout between Champ Don Jordan and dethroned Virgil Atkins has been rescheduled from March 6 to April 3. NBC-TV will carry it as a Friday night fight. Heavily damaged in St. Louis caused postponement while a new arena was sought.

Tammy Lea Marilyn, the 6-year-old who gave Bob Cummings trouble on his show last Tuesday, will be a regular member of the cast. She won the title of "All American 'Smile' Girl" in the "Howdy Dood"y."

Ramon Novarro, old-time star, plays a villain in the Sophia Loren picture, "Heller With a Gun." Peggy Lee, incidentally, will star in her own TV series next season. Marilyn Monroe, one columnist says, will serve as hostess for a series of TV stories by her husband, playwright Arthur Miller. Roy Rogers takes over the Dinah Shore show again on April 25.

There your success depends entirely upon what spectators say—the word of mouth," he explains. "Here it is entirely up to the critics."

The star of the current hit "La Plume de Ma Tante" feels the public dependence on reviewers is "very understandable—the critics analyze and give reasons. In Paris they just say 'I like it,' or 'I don't like it—they rarely say why."

Motor Carriers Want Trucking Under PSC

Association Claims
Enforcement Lax on Vehicles in State

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Dissatisfied with the motor carrier enforcement work of the state motor vehicle department, the Wisconsin Motor Carriers association is asking the legislature to transfer the administration of the motor vehicle carrier laws to the public service commission.

The announcement was made here by John P. Varda, general manager of the association, who said one of the goals of organized carriers is the elimination of the "wildcat" trucker from the highways of the state.

The motor vehicle department enforces the motor carrier laws as a mere incident of its general enforcement responsibilities, he complained, and through the work of ordinary patrolmen who are not qualified to apply the complex terms of the state route rules and others that are involved.

The legislation would authorize the public service commission to hire 10 specially trained motor vehicle inspectors, he explained.

Came Abruptly
Varda's announcement came abruptly and unexpectedly during a legislative committee hearing on the budget requests of the public service commission, during which Varda also explained licensed truckers are now paying for far more regulatory service than they are actually getting.

He said the original purpose of the permit fee assessments of the state against the carriers was to pay for effective regulation of the industry, but that in point of fact the permit fee yields amount to twice the enforcement costs, with the surplus money going into the state highway fund which was not intended to be supported in that fashion.

"The enforcement of the state regulations covering our industry is not good," he told the legislators. "The motor vehicle department doesn't have the understanding of our industry and these technical rules that the public service commission does."

The latter commission promulgates the rules under which the regulated carriers operate. Twenty years ago the enforcement of the rules was transferred to the motor vehicle department.

MARCH 10, 1959

Office of County Clerk

STATE OF WISCONSIN
COUNTY OF OUTAGAMIE

To the Electors of Outagamie County:

Notice is hereby given that an Election is to be held in the several Towns, Wards, Villages, and Election Precincts in the County of Outagamie, on the 10th day of March, 1959, at which the officers named below are to be chosen. The names of the candidates to be voted for, whose nominations have been certified to or filed in this office, and given under the title of the office and under the appropriate party or other designation, each in its proper column, in the sample ballot below.

INFORMATION TO VOTERS

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters:

A voter upon entering the polling place and giving his name and residence, will receive a ballot from the ballot clerk which must have indorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks, and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to a booth or compartment and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform the voter as to the proper manner of marking a ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for.

At a nonpartisan primary election, the voter shall place a cross or other mark in the square at the right of the name of the candidate for whom he intends to vote, or by inserting or writing in the name of any other candidate.

The Ballot should not be marked in any other manner. If the ballot be spoiled, it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but not more than three in all shall be issued to any one voter. Five minutes' time is allowed in booth to mark ballot. Unofficial ballots or memorandum to assist the voter in marking his ballot can be taken into the booth, and may be used to copy from. The ballot must not be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter.

After it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that the printed endorsements and signatures of the ballot clerks on the outside may be seen. Then the voter should pass out of the booth or compartment, give his name to the inspector in charge of the ballot box, hand him his ballot to be placed in the box, and pass out of the voting place.

A voter, who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have assistance of two election officers in marking same, to be chosen by the voters; and if he declares that he is totally blind, he may be assisted by any person chosen by him from among the legal voters of the county. The presiding officer may administer an oath in his discretion, as to such person's disability.

The following is a facsimile of the official ballot:

Driver Killed Instantly in Train-Car Crash

and face; and their daughter, Mary, 7, bruises of the head. Passehl was driving north on County Trunk D. The train was eastbound.

Train crewmen said later the freight was traveling about 40 miles an hour and none of the crew knew the car hit the train. The crew was contacted later at Neenah by Sheriff Robert Heinritz.

County Patrolman John Carpenter said the road was extremely slippery. Ryckman told police the car was slowing for the crossing at about 15 to 20 miles an hour when Passehl saw the train, but could not stop. Visibility was poor.

The 1950 car was demolished.

There have been six traffic deaths in Outagamie county since Feb. 14 one in Appleton, the remainder in the rural areas. At the same time last year, the county had had two highway deaths, compared to seven this year.

Funeral arrangements for Passehl are being made by Eberhardt and Hoh Funeral home, Clintonville.

Coroner Kemps noted that the state coroner's association has legislation pending before the legislature to require all railroad cars to be marked with reflector-type tape.

Raises Toll to 90

The four deaths on state highway this weekend raised the state traffic toll to 90, one less than on this date last year.

Andrew Baschelt, 64, Kenosha, was struck and killed by a car Sunday as he walked across a street near his home.

Mrs. Laura Voight, 63, Merrill, was fatally injured late Saturday when the car in which she was riding skidded on a Marathon county road and smashed into a tree, about two miles north of Wausau.

James Kiehszskerski, 20, of Hull, Portage county, was killed Sunday when the car in which he was riding crashed into a ditch and flipped over several times on Highway 66 near Stevens Point.

Meeting on Water Utility Problems Set

A representative of the state public service commission will meet with the city's board of public works and water commission at 2 p.m. Tuesday, March 3, Mayor Mitchell said today.

Discussion will center on two resolutions presented in November by Ald. Mrs. Stillings and approved at a committee of the whole meeting of the council.

The resolutions call for an end to water commission awarding of contracts for public improvements such as for laying water mains and for turning over to the city treasury about $116,000 which the water commission received from paid up life insurance policies on two employees.

No Right

During several meetings in the last three years, members of the board of public works have told the water commission it has no right to let public works contracts that the power is delegated by state law to the works board. The commission has always let the contracts.

Water commissioners have voted to use the $116,000 to pay up debts it contracted when the Whispering Pines and Buchholz sanitary districts were annexed.

The joint meeting also is expected to discuss whether the water commission will continue to pay the city treasury a dividend on the city tax money invested in the utility over the years.

Councilmen decreed last fall the city would stop building equity in the utility by furnishing tax monies every year. They called the annual tax appropriation a subsidy that kept water rates artificially low.

Snow Causes Roof to Collapse

Several milking cows were injured this morning when part of supporting timbers for the roof of the lower milking barn of Schaefer Dairy Products company, 2036 E. Newberry street, collapsed. No workers were hurt. Workmen said about three feet of heavy snow on the roof apparently caused the failure of supporting timbers inside the barn.

Want New School

Two Parent-Teacher organizations have added their approval to construction of a new Edison school, letters filed at city hall revealed today. They are Columbus and Whispering Pines.

Only the Strong Survived 'Doctoring' of Pioneer Days

Indianapolis — Know somebody who wants to stop stammering? Try smacking him in the face with a piece of liver.

Got lumbago pains? Boil an old shoe and drink the residue.

The Indiana Historical bureau reports these and similar home remedies were common among Indiana citizens of a century ago—and even more recently.

Only Strong Survived
It is a noble tribute to the hardness of Hoosier pioneers that they survived not only their illnesses but their cures. W. Edson Richmond and Elva Van Winkle, two Indiana University staff members, went searching for remedies that were a part of Indiana life 100 years ago. Here's the list they compiled:

If somebody with blue gums bites you, rub the bite with some black hen litter, and the bitter will lose his teeth.

For a cut, bind on a poultice of fresh cow manure.

Asthma—Drink a tea made by boiling a hornets' nest.

Head cold — Take nine whiffs from a dirty sock.

Leg cramps—Tie some egg skin around the leg.

Croup—Rub the throat with skunk oil and take a dose of oil.

Dead Man's Hand
Inflamed finger joints—Catch a weasel and squeeze it to death.

Goiter—Pass a dead person's hand over the throat.

Headache—Drink hot milk laced with pepper.

Measles—Rub with sheep dung.

Rabies—Burn the bite for at least eight seconds with a red-hot iron.

Rheumatism—Rub the afflicted parts with the blood of a freshly killed rattlesnake.

Not all the cures were so disagreeable. Many ailments, including cholera, fever, lung fever and others—called for a liberal dose of whisky or gin.

That particular remedy undoubtedly went down easier than the hornets' nest tea.

Used 'Spells' Too
Other pioneer prescriptions to fell into the category of "spells" instead of medicine.

Toothache—To prevent toothaches, trim fingernails only on Fridays.

Warts—Rub the wart with a stolen dishrag and then hide the dishrag in a tree.

General diseases—Lay on stumps.

Culbertson on Bridge

The type of defensive coup that should be used in cases such as the following has been thoroughly explained in text books and in countless newspaper articles, but, strange to say, the average player never seems to grasp the idea.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 C Pass 1 D Pass
2 N T Pass 3 N T Pass
Pass Pass

South had his neck out when he jumped to two no trump on the second round, but, thanks to West's passivity in the play, this aggressiveness was well rewarded. If South had made the more normal one-heart rebid, West scarcely would have opened the heart jack, as he did, and there might also have been another difference in the play.

Taking the first trick with the heart queen, South led the nine of diamonds and West, without even thinking, followed suit with the three. The nine was thereupon overtaken by the ten in dummy—and East was fixed. Of he took his queen then and there, declarer could run the entire diamond suit on a second finesse; and when East actually made the good play of ducking, South had gained an entry to dummy that he sorely needed.

He finessed to the club queen, then laid down the queen of spades. East held up his ace, but when the spade nine was led to the king, he took the trick and exited with a spade.

Declarer, having won his second spade trick, then led to the diamond ace and tried another club finesse. This gave him three clubs, two spades, two hearts and two diamonds.

West's opening lead was simply unfortunate, but his subsequent defense was inexcusable. He should have gone right in with the king on declarer's first lead of diamonds. Then, whatever declarer did, he could win only one diamond trick, and moreover he would be deprived of the extra entry to dummy for club leads.

West argued that the spade king had looked like a sure entry to dummy, but that impression, whether right or wrong, should have had no effect on West's proper diamond play.

In Good Taste Reception Not Place to Sell Tickets

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: This last Saturday I was invited to the wedding of a cousin's son. Where but at a wedding do you get to see all your relations at one time? Being an ardent worker in the cause of mentally retarded children I get several raffle books to dispose of each year. I thought it would be a good idea to take the books with me and ask my relatives to take a raffle ticket for 25 cents. As I saw these different relatives I asked them if they would take a chance and they did so—gladly. While I was doing this, the mother of the groom came over and asked me what I was doing. I explained and she said, "Please don't do it." I was very embarrassed and quite upset over it. This was all done very quietly and unobtrusively and I only approached my relatives. Was I wrong in doing this despite the fact that it was for a very worthwhile cause?

Answer: I am sorry to say that you were wrong. A wedding reception is not a proper place to sell chances even for a very worthy charity.

Proper Person
Dear Mrs. Post: My son thinks it wrong to mix the first and second marriage by his giving me away at my wedding. I've been a widow for seven years and my son is in his mid-twenties. He is very thoughtful and usually a blessing on their marriage. The couple was wed there Feb. 22, 1909. Mrs. Captain, Sr., is the former Elizabeth Merkes.

Mr. Captain, Sr., who is retired, is serving in his eighth year as alderman of Appleton's Sixth ward. He was employed as janitor of St. Joseph and St. Mary Catholic schools prior to retirement. He is a native of Brussels, Wis., and his wife is a native of Clintonville.

The couple has two daughters. Mrs. Roland Haase and Mrs. William Riley, 1406 N. Nicholas street.

Earlier in the day, the senior Captains attended 9:15 mass at St. Joseph Catholic church, where they received a blessing on their marriage. The couple was wed there Feb. 22, 1909. Mrs. Captain, Sr., is the former Elizabeth Merkes.

Thief Enters Four Offices, Fails at Store

Fourth Floor Suites Ransacked; Nothing Taken, Police Say

Two burglaries and an attempted break-in, all believed to be the work of the same thief, were reported to police Saturday.

Two suites of offices on the fourth floor of the Zuelke building were ransacked and the thief fled when accosted by three people near the rear of the Camera Exchange, 322 W. College avenue, shortly before 10 p.m. Saturday.

Police said the rear door of the camera store had been badly damaged as the thief tried to break in. The store's owner had barricaded the rear door so entry is about impossible, police said. The store was burglarized for about $900 last Oct. 11.

Offices entered in the Zuelke building were Gill, Sensenbrenner and Stein and the C. J. Berst Company, Inc., in one suite, and Brummund and Froehlich, attorneys, and the Milwaukee Company Investments, J. H. Day representatives, in the other.

Police said although desks and files were ransacked, apparently nothing was taken. Both office suites were entered by sliding a metal tool between the door frame and door to open the latch.

Mrs. Jack Timmers, 611 N. Douglas street, and her husband's sister, Mrs. John Christenson, Evanston, 111., told police they saw a youth near the back door of the camera store and went to a nearby bar to get aid. Tem-

Millwrights, Machine Erectors Talk New Local

Formation of a separate local within the AFL-CIO Carpenters and Joiners union for the millwrights and machine erectors in the Fox river valley was discussed Saturday at an Appleton meeting.

Between 50 and 75 men mainly in the papermaking industry, attended the session conducted by Gus Trappier, a business representative of the Millwrights and Machine Erectors of the Milwaukee district council, Carpenters and Joiners.

The opinion was expressed that the 200 millwrights and machine erectors in the Fox valley could obtain better working conditions and a better pay schedule if they had their own local. Another meeting is planned for March.

Executions Fruit of Batista Dictatorship

more than 300 men — former policemen and soldiers — for taking part in the Batista killings. Many more will face firing squads before the book is closed.

These executions have drawn criticism in the United States. The Castro explanation is that his military tribunals had to move fast to keep the revolution from turning into a lynch rule in routing out men known to be Batista henchmen.

Verdict of History

Whatever the verdict of history, there are piles of evidence to show the way things went under the fallen Batista regime. His men were out to stamp out opposition and end a revolution. Civil rights meant nothing in Cuba for months.

One man alone, Jesus Sosa Blanco, was accused of responsibility for 108 victims. He died before a firing squad last Wednesday.

Five of his soldiers were executed for the massacre of 19 persons at one village.

The revolutionary government made no attempt to prove its entire case against Sosa Blanco. The prosecution rested after calling 82 of its 92 witnesses. The testimony, circumstantial and direct, concerned 29 assassinations and homicides.

Nine of the victims were members of one family suspected of being rebel sympathizers near Bayamo in Oriente province. This was the family of farm worker Martin Argote who was machine-gunned by soldiers as Sosa Blanco stood by, witnesses testified.

Miguel Llorente, the 10th person in the Argote family lineup survived through a freakish incident—he fainted and fell a split second before the soldiers fired.

Others Dead

Questioned on his qualifications as an eyewitness, Llorente told the court:

"No I didn't see the shooting. All I know is I was alive in front of the guns expecting to be dead in minutes. Then I woke up with all the others dead around me."

The defense, seeking to show the Argotes were victims of a battle between rebels and troops, noted that the body of a soldier was found near Argote's.

But Llorente testified the with police tactics and aware month. He was executed of Garcia Olajon's position in the national police hierarchy, acted as his own investigator. Months later, he obtained sufficient evidence to obtain a writ for the arrest of Garcia Olajon and the two guards on a murder charge.

Public Order

But the government took the case out of the civilian courts. Constitutional guarantees were suspended ostensibly to maintain public order. Fidel Castro had not made his historic landing in Oriente province but unrest was sweeping the country.

Under this decree Garcia Olajon's trial went to a military court. Witnesses disappeared or refused to testify. He was quickly absolved.

The case was reopened last

Monday, February 23, 1959. The world was unprepared to accept as fact the scene exposed by the collapse of the Batista dictatorship.

Moral Support

The minutes of a Havana Bar association meeting June 12, 1958 reveal that delegates of Argentina and David Stern of Miami Fla. failed in an effort to get the Inter-American Bar association to ex-Barrieau and his wife press solidarity and moral support to Havana Bar association efforts to "restore constitutional principles as they apply to human rights and to the independence of the judicial authority and free professional enterprise."

The motion was turned down by the inter-American group's executive committee.

Dear Sir:

Our eleventh anniversary, which we publicised mainly in the POST CRESCENT, was a tremendous success. Store traffic was excellent in every department. We are particularly enthusiastic over the results derived from the regular use of color advertising. Our monthly half page color ad highlighting a certain department has consistently brought results that are most gratifying.

Please accept our thanks for the fine cooperation and aid we have received from your staff.

Color Brings "Consistent" Results and Store Traffic

Will Olson, Advertising Color Specialist

Today the layout of a newspaper advertisement is of prime importance in and reproduction. Will Olson, 7 years in newspaper advertising planning, preparing and production has been a member of the Post Crescent for three years now. Olson states, "It's not only the overall layout but also the placement of the ad on the page when preparing a color advertisement. Small breaks or gaps scattered throughout the advertisement should be avoided. Keeping the color in one area will help the newspaper to control register and assure you of a strong, even print color advertisement. Beautiful Patterns on Trees and railings greeted Twin City residents this morning as they observed Sunday night's snowfall. Typical of these scenes was that on Maple street in Neenah. But the heavy snow also caused trees to break and pull down wires, such as on E. Wisconsin avenue near the Riverside park harbor.

Twin Cities Dig Out From Second Heavy Snowfall

Schools Closed, Power Lines Down After Early Blizzard

Neenah — Closed schools, stalled cars, fallen tree limbs and broken telephone and electrical service lines were testimonials to the snowfall which disrupted the living patterns of Twin City residents today.

Both the public schools in Neenah and Menasha operated today although in Menasha the buses did not go out to pick up the Maplewood district children in the town of Menasha. Neenah sent its school buses out at 11:30 a. m. to pick up the rural high school pupils.

Schools in the area as well as several of the parochial schools in the Twin Cities were closed for the day and many meetings of clubs and groups were called off.

Lines Down

C. M. Flaherty, telephone company manager, reported about 200 service lines from the poles to the homes were broken by falling branches that snapped under the weight of the snow. All available personnel were sent out to clear the lines.

Collapses After Walk

Walter Lingmofski, 512 Sixth street, Menasha, was taken from Gilbert Paper company to Theda Clark hospital in the Neenah ambulance at 7:14 a. m. today. He collapsed from exhaustion from walking to work.

Seek Man for Questioning in 2 Breakins

Entry Made Into Area Firms; Find Car in Parking Lot

Oshkosh — Warrants are expected to be issued here Tuesday when court convenes for the apprehension of a suspect believed involved in two breakins at the Western Tire Auto store at 322 N. Commercial street and Donald's store at the Valley Fair in the town of Menasha.

A car belonging to an Anti-go man was found abandoned at the Valley Fair in the town of Menasha Sunday with the key still in the ignition and the motor warm. County police had driven into the shopping center to check the doors when they found the car and both the front and rear doors of Donald's store open.

The person to whom the car belongs was issued has admitted over 150 breakins and served eight years in the state prison at Waupun, according to Antigo police.

Neenah police are considering asking for a John Doe Warrant in connection with the breakin at the Western Tire Auto store. They learned about the breakin when county police found a money bag containing $36.50 under the front seat of the car.

Slip Identifies Bag

A slip inside the bag indicated it had been taken from the Western Tire Auto store. Police, in checking the store, found the rear doors had been opened. Orville LaSelle, owner of the store, said nothing else seemed to be missing and estimated the bag contained about $40 to $45. The doors were locked when checked by a Neenah patrolman at 12:40 a. m. Sunday.

Donald Crabbe, 1220 S. Main street, Appleton, owner of Donald's store, said a bank bag in his office had been ransacked and several engines, checks scattered about. Nothing seemed to have been taken.

Officers theorized the burglar must have been frightened away by the arrival of police. Investigation revealed that Donald's store also had been entered by prying open a rear door with an iron bar. A description of the suspect has been given to police in the area who were asked to be on the lookout for him.

Camera Vs. Shovel Snow Was Pretty to Wife, Pretty Heavy to Husband

Menasha — Oh, how pretty the snow looks on the trees and wires, many a Twin City housewife said as she looked out in the early dawn this morning.

But hubby, who had to shovel his way out of his garage only to get stuck in the street while on his way to work, was not thinking of the esthetic beauty.

As one woman remarked, "I was going to take a picture but the shovel got in the way of the camera."

Many a would-be motorist ended up walking to work and was glad when he counted the number of cars stuck in the snow, both on the side streets and on the highways. Drivers who left their cars out all night located them by the radio aeries.

"Back in '22" Those who remember the sleet storm of 1922, which came on Washington's birthday, were quick to recall how sleet knocked out power lines over a wide section of the state. People that day got out kerosene lanterns and lamps if available.

The fresh white stuff piled up outside now began on Washington's birthday too.

Oldtimers who always talked about the winter of '28 and "back in those days" have turned silent.

Now would be a good time for teachers to get out the old poems and read John Greenleaf Whittier's "Snowbound."

Anyone got a bobbed and horse to rent to a reporter who left his car in the garage?

Parking Law Not Observed, Chief Declares

Asks Cooperation To Aid Problem Of Snow Removal

Menasha — Police Chief Peter Clark has asked Menasha residents to cooperate fully in observing the ordinance regarding parking on streets.

Clark said, "This is one of the worst winters that we have had and constant reminders about parking should not be necessary but residents have not been observing the ordinance."

Parking is not allowed between 2 and 6 a.m. the year around in the city. Leaving cars on the streets overnight creates a problem for city crews who work during the early hours to remove snow when traffic is light.

Two Many Cars Chief Clark said many cars have had to be towed off the streets this winter. In such cases the owners are given parking tickets and also are faced with a towing charge.

In some cases it may be necessary for a person to leave his car on the street overnight, the chief said. Permission to do so can be obtained by calling the police station, stating the reason for leaving the car out and giving the license number to police.

Clark said that more cooperation from residents will remedy the situation. The police department does not want to create a lot of hard feeling but laws must be observed, the chief explained.

Chicago — P — Drivers and maintenance employees of a bus line serving 40,000 passengers in 26 west suburban communities went on strike today in a long dispute over wages.

The president of the truck company said he will take steps to make good his threat to go out of business.

More than 300 members of Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric and Motor Coach Employees of America struck after company and union officials failed in a last-minute effort to avert a walk-out.

sonnel was put to work to restore service.

Wisconsin - Michigan Power company said it had 75 service wires between the poles and homes down but service to these homes was largely restored by mid-morning. All crews were put onto storm work rather than continuing on construction projects. First report of a service disruption came about 6:30 a.m.

City crews at Menasha began snow removal work at 7 a.m. today. Police were helping direct traffic to facilitate the work of graders on Main street.

Streets were dumping the snow into the canal as they have been doing all winter.

Thomas McGuire, Menasha water and light superintendent, said the department had received about 40 calls this morning, mostly from isolated areas where small wires had been knocked down by falling branches loaded with the heavy snow.

One high voltage line was strapped on E. Broad street in Menasha, knocking out service along Plank Road, Brighton Drive, and most of the east section of the city. The line was fixed about an hour after it was reported down. Service was restored around 3 a.m. today.

Neenah street crews went into action at 2:30 this morning with six trucks and four graders starting to clear the streets. The crews will continue until all streets are open and then will resume snow removal from the business and main districts tonight.

ACCIDENTS OFTEN HIDDEN CAUSE OF DISEASE

By Tipton X. Furman
Chiropractor, Neenah

The rate at which human beings are maimed and crippled in the United States during 1940, 1,250,000 persons were injured in accidents involving auto, airplane or other vehicles.

The above figures are accounts only for those suffering from fractures or sprains, lacerations and lacerations. In addition to these there must have been millions more in car accidents who were badly shaken but otherwise not considered injured. In many of these cases severe spinal misalignments were produced causing nerve interference. Although symptoms did not appear immediately, these misalignments eventually manifested themselves as a wide type of ailment. Many of these misalignments are hidden causes of disease.

The three students had prepared the maps on a volunteer basis to aid the civil defense program. They are Norbert Boe, Judy Kiesow and Wayne Mathison.

Vary Fillings Of Sandwiches For Lunch Boxes

Neenah — Vary peanut butter sandwiches for lunch boxes by adding raisins, chopped prunes, apricots, bananas, apple slices or jelly to the filling.

Raw ground carrot and raisin, chopped cabbage, apple and bacon makes crisp sandwiches. It is best to shred the ingredients with a vegetable shredder or cut fine with a sharp knife. Vary egg sandwiches with chopped onion, grated cheese or crisp bacon.

Thawing frozen fish can best be done by leaving the package right in the refrigerator. If one needs to do this more quickly, put the whole package, unopened, in cold, running water. It will take about a half hour to thaw fish using this method.

For a dieter's luncheon salad, arrange mounds of cream style cottage cheese on crisp greens, stud cheese with seedless green grapes and surround with orange sections.

Spread large pecans with a little seasoned cream cheese and top with a matching nut. Refrigerate for a short time and then serve as a company snack.

Try a dash of garlic powder in your next dish of egg salad. Different, but good.

Japanese Designer Given Top Assignment

Tokyo — A petite American educated designer has become the center of a storm. The imperial household among Japan's fashion world board has asked Mrs. Harue Matsuda 48, a department store designer, to help design Japan's future empress' formal attire.

This was a shock for some 100 other well-known aspirants for the assignment. Mrs. Matsuda, a married woman, is not nearly as famous as some of her pasted-over colleagues.

The imperial household's board also named two other women to design dresses for the former who will become Crown Prince Akihito's bride in April. They are Mrs. Chayo Tanaka, 50, and Miss Kay Kurematsu, 72, who have been making dresses for Empress Nagako and imperial brides for many years.

No one has questioned their selection. But the name of Mrs. Matsuda caused an uproar. "This is more fantastic than the famed designer cried tearfully, than the selection of a miller's daughter as the future Empress of Japan."

Quiet Determination Miss Shoda is a daughter of the president of Japan's largest flour milling company. Mrs. Matsuda a graduate in 1941 of the Style Center Designing school in Honolulu quietly said in an interview, "I am determined to do my best in this important assignment, that will undoubtedly set the fashion of the year for Japanese womanhood."

Finish Strong The Zephyrs' play wasn't up to what it had been in recent starts. Many shots rolled around the hoop but wouldn't go in, several times Marinette players broke away from the St. Mary defenders for easy buckets and at times the rebounding was spotty. However, they showed the true mark of a champion and finished strong to keep that winning string intact.

Marinette held the hosts to an 11-11 first quarter tie and the teams were still deadlocked at halftime — 25-all. Although the third quarter was slow moving — only 15 points were scored — St. Mary's offense started to pick up and it made nine of the last 11 points of the period, taking a 34-31 lead into the final frame. Jerry Laemmrich had six of St. Mary's nine points.

First 11 Points Things really broke open in the final segment as the hosts made the first 11 points. The string included two baskets by Dean Schreiner and Pete Vanderhyden, one by Gary Batley and a free throw by Schreiner.

The scoreboard shot up to 45-31 before the visitors broke into the scoring column. They hurried briefly for five points to cut the spread to nine points but never could get it any lower.

Vanderhyden led the winners with 16 points, including nine in the first frame. None of the other Zephyrs hit in the double figures.

Pecotte Hits 21 Bob Pecotte, the conference top scorer, led Marinette and game pointmen with 21 on eight buckets and five charities.

Unofficially, St. Mary made 22 baskets in 70 tries for 30 per cent and Marinette 16 for 54 and a like percentage. From the free throw line, Zephyrs connected seven times in 13 tries to Marinette's poor 8 for 23. The Cavaliers only fouled 10 times and St. Mary didn't get a bonus throw until about three minutes remained.

Neenah—Nine baskets for New London against 40 for Neenah gives an indication of how things went in their Mid-Eastern conference game Saturday night at the Rocket gym. Needless to say, the Rockets came out on top by an 84-33 score.

The victory gives Neenah a 7-6 Mid-Eastern conference record while New London is still winless in 13 starts.

Coach Ole Jorgensen used his Rocket first stringers only in the first quarter with reserves going the rest of the way. New London also substituted liberally.

The Rockets used their superior heart to dominate the boards and their defense forced the Bulldogs to do much of their shooting from the outside.

Start Strong

The Rockets started strong and had a 22-6 lead at the close of the first period. They added 19 more points in the second frame to New London's eight for a 41-14 halftime margin.

Paige Rink, Wauwatosa, Wins Bonspiel

3 Former Appleton Men Curl With Championship Unit

For the seventh time in 14 years, a Wauwatosa rink has won the Appleton Curling club's invitational bonspiel. But, this time, the out-of-town victorious unit has a decidedly local flavor about it.

Three members of the John Paige rink, which defeated Hoyt Thompson, Kenilworth, Ill., 11-7, in Sunday's finals, formerly lived in Appleton and curled at the ACC. They are Stan Lewis, Milt Kassner and John Walch.

With Mather Rink Skip Paige had won title glory here before—as a member of the championship "Red" Mather rink of 1956 and 1957. The Paige foursome won its way into this year's finals of the first, or Papermaker, event with a 9-8 win over Appleton's Joe Schulten.

Appleton's Clarence "Dobie" Robertson won the title in the second, or Sherry Motors, event by nipping deposed grand champion Lew Phenner (of the ACC), 11-10. Trailing by three going into the tenth end, Robertson tied it to send it into the eleventh Skip Robertson's participation in the 'spiel was his first competitive appearance of the season.

Other members of the Robertson rink were Carl Falk, Fred Allen and W. W. "Dobie" Robertson.

The third (City of Appleton) event champ is Wauwatosa's Luke Collins. Collins defeated Clintonville's Joe Peticka, 11-9, in the finals. Making up the victorious rink were Luke Collins, Mike Collins (former Lawrence bonspiel champ) and Neil Collins and "Fritz" Ruf, Lawrence college curlers.

Semi-finals results, other than the Paige win over Schulten, are these: Thompson boat Dr. Cavanaugh, Wauwatosa, 8-5, in the first event; Robertson beat Milt Dewey, Wauwatosa, 12-8, and Phenner beat Dan Steinberg, Appleton, 10-2, in the second event; and Collins stopped Mel Cribbs, Winnetka, 10-5, and Peticka defeated Bill Hobbins, Green Bay, 10-5, in the third event.

Top Xavier In Return To Form

Milwaukee—P—With a 79-70 victory over Xavier of Ohio under its belt, the Marquette basketball team returned home to face Notre Dame at the arena Tuesday night.

The triumph at Cincinnati Saturday night gave the Warriors, thirteenth ranked in the Associated Press poll, an 18-3 slate and indicated they were returning to form after two straight losses. They have five games left before seeing action in the NCAA tournament.

Needed Work

"We needed a lot of work to get in physical shape and pull ourselves together after losing those two games," Coach Ed Hickey said. "We could not get it because the kids were pretty tired in addition to the injuries. So they weren't too sharp in execution, which only daily work can smooth out; but they did a good job of playing deliberate ball at a time when it would have been easy to get flustered."

"I thought they handled the fast break well, considering they weren't ready to go at the kind of speed they normally do."

He said free throwing needs attention as his team missed 11 of 26 tries against Xavier and the rebounding in the last three games lacked its usual authority.

"However," he added, "I blame that on tiredness more than anything else and I think we'll be okay now."

Marquette had to stave off two Xavier threats. It broke to a 22-14 lead and then cooled off as the Musketeers tied the count at 32. Jim McCoy pumped in six points and Jim Kollar added two more to give the Warriors a 40-33 halftime cushion.

Marquette upped the count to 48-33 before Xavier began pouring in points and cut the margin to two points with about seven minutes to go. The Warriors then ran up eight fast points and had little trouble staying ahead to the end. Hickey sent in his second team with less than a minute left and Xavier scored six points to shorten the gap.

Raiders Foil Truckers' Bid for Upset, 54-52

Two Rivers Now 2nd Alone in M-E Conference

Clintonville—Clintonville's basketball Truckers almost pulled off a major upset in the Mid-Eastern conference here Saturday night but lost, 54-52, to Two Rivers.

The victory put the Raiders alone in second place since former co-runnerup Shawano was being knocked off by champion Kimberly. Two Rivers is now 10-3 in the league. Clintonville is 4-9.

The Jerry Grunski, coach-ed Truckers owned a 12-10 lead after one quarter, but the visitors went ahead early in the second period and led, 27-22, at the half. The Raiders were on top until late in the third stanza. It was 38-31 at the end of the third quarter.

Clints Lead

Clintonville was ahead, 46-45, with 3:00 left. Then, "Bucky" Knope and Don Koprowski of Two Rivers each poured in a pair of long shots from the side for a 53-46 lead with 2:00 to go.

Clintonville pressed and counted six of the next seven points as Archie Gough and Leon Westphal intercepted, passed and scored and Jim Petcka counted a pair of free throws while the Raiders were adding just a Knope free throw.

With about 10 seconds to go and Two Rivers ahead, 54-52, Westphal missed a 10-foot jump shot and Jim Sutliff rebounded Tom Lawrence hit 18 and Knope 16 for Two Rivers while Westphal tallied 17 for the Clints.

Two Rivers made eight of 10 free throws, Clintonville hit 12 of 23.

The Clintonville "B" team won, 59-44, after leading 33-20 at the half. Don Bohman hit 15 for the junior Truckers.

Appleton High school's "Fire House Five," which quenched Green Bay East's red-hot Red Devils, 54-46, here Saturday night, is readying its basketball gear to answer an 8:15 p.m. Friday alarm at Oshkosh.

AHS' cagers meet Oshkosh, winner of seven straight games (and the only Fox River Valley conference team currently hotter than GBE) in one of two Friday headliners. Manitowish, which Saturday clinched a title tie with a 54-49 win over West, plays host to Fond du Lac in the other bill-topper.

The fast-breaking, ball-stealing Terrors ran East's quintet into the boards Saturday to avenge a January loss (51-43) and to spear a one-fifth share of third place in the jammed-up FRVC race.

A win at Oshkosh would not only extinguish the Indians' title chance but would assure the Terrors of at least a tie for third place and a .500 season (both for FRVC and overall play.)

AHS trailed for only the first three minutes Saturday in humbling a Green Bay team for the first time in four tries (two losses to West and one to East) this season. East went into the fray with a 4-game winning streak and six wins in seven games.

Appleton's Jumpin' John Nussbaum, the FRVC's second best scorer, joined the "20-or-over" club for the fourth straight time as he set the victors' pace with 20 points. With its 54 points, AHS became the only team other

Spartans Rest After Cinching Title Tie

Decision Purdue, 94-87; Eight Big 10 Teams in Action Tonight

By The Associated Press

Michigan State, lacking one victory to clinch its first undisputed Big Ten basketball championship, sits back tonight to see how many of the teams with a chance for a title tie will be eliminated.

No less than six clubs retain a mathematical chance of sharing the crown with the Spartans and five of them will be in action tonight.

Indiana, Purdue, Illinois and Iowa are locked in second place with identical 6-3 records. MSU rules the roost with a 9-2 mark and three games to play. Minnesota and Michigan, both 5-5, also have a chance.

While Michigan State continues to enjoy its 94-87 triumph over Purdue which insured the Spartans at least a title tie, eight teams swing into action tonight. Northwestern plays at Minnesota, Ohio State at Indiana, Purdue at Iowa and Wisconsin at Michigan.

The actual clinching of the crown could come Saturday when Michigan invades Indiana in a regionally televised matinee. If the Spartans fail at Bloomington, then they certainly should wrap it up Monday when they meet last-place Wisconsin at East Lansing. MSU finishes out the season at home against Iowa, March 7.

Michigan State needed and received help elsewhere in assuring itself of a piece of the crown. Illinois defeated Indiana, 100-98, on Roger Taylor's basket with 15 seconds to play and Northwestern whipped Michigan, 87-64.

In other games, Iowa defeated Ohio State, 91-79; and Minnesota drove Wisconsin deeper into the cellar, 69-50. Wisconsin was the only home team to lose.

George Yardley appears to have located the Fountain of Youth in Syracuse.

The balding, 30-year-old Yardley, a veteran of six years in the National Basketball association, was traded by the Detroit Pistons to Syracuse for the younger Ed Collin.

But Yardley apparently has regained the touch which made him last year's NBA scoring leader at Detroit before the Pistons decided to peddle the "old man."

Yardley had his best game as a Nat Sunday and it came against his former mates.

Big George scored 33 points as the hot-shooting Nats dumped Detroit, 139-108, and set an all-time home court scoring record. It also moved the third-place Nats four full games in front of fourth-place Philadelphia in the Eastern Division.

In other Sunday games, New York dumped the Warriors, 111-90. St. Louis ended Minneapolis' four-game winning streak, 120-106, and Boston defeated Cincinnati, 129-112.

Savitt, Olmedo Reach Finals

Alex Defeats Barry Mackay In Straight Sets

New York—P—Dick Savitt defended his National indoor tennis championship against a newcomer to the boards today—and if he had a good night's sleep, he's a brave bloke, indeed.

Savitt took the court against Alex Olmedo, the Davis cup ace, in the final after each swept through his semi-final with a straight set triumph Sunday.

Olmedo was far more impressive in chopping down Davis cup teammate Barry Mackay of Dayton, Ohio, 6-2, 8-6, 6-4. Savitt ousted teenager Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

Mackay summed it up well. "I've beaten Savitt three out of four times indoors," he said. "And then Olmedo beats me easily. According to my reasoning, that would give Olmedo a pretty good chance of winning."

Bradenton, Fla. —P—John McHale went shopping as the general manager of the Milwaukee Braves Sunday—but he didn't buy anything.

Roach is recovering from an injury to his left knee and McHale doesn't want him to rush things.

Suspension Thunder
Suspension thunder loomed for Conley over the weekend when he announced intentions of staying with the National Celtics for the National Basketball association playoffs until after spring training starts Feb. 28.

"Birdie" Tebbets, the team's executive vice president, said Conley is a hold out because he didn't report Saturday as ordered. "If he hasn't shown up by opening day (April 9) he'll be suspended."

The Braves, with an eye on Conley's 0-6 won-loss record last season, have asked him to take a 25 per cent pay cut.

Due in camp today were Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette and Humberto Robinson.

Wally Moore Hits 592 'Tavern' Set
Wally Moore clubbed a 592 in the Tavern league at Hahn's when that circuit had its latest round.

Siella's (54-21) holds an 8-game lead. Other honor scores: Nate Beiling 556, Joe Zee-gers 580, Butch Voelker 577, Jerry Wichman 563, Ken Beir-ent 554, Jim Traas 552.

Ford missed half a dozen starts last year due to pain in his left shoulder. He also was out for half of the 1957 campaign, appearing in only 129 innings. After the 1957 World Series, doctors said that his shoulder ache was due to "high uric acid."

A high purine diet was prescribed and he was told to stay on it. It demands that Ford refrain from eating protein meat or drinking alcoholic beverages, as both produce uric acid.

Thomas, who moved to the Reds from Pittsburgh in a 6-player transaction last month, signed for about $25,000 — an increase of $7,000. The slugger hit 35 homers and drove in 109 runs last season.

Madison —P—Wisconsin resumes its familiar role of underdog tonight in its Big Ten basketball clash at Michigan, after losing, 69-50, to Minnesota here Saturday.

Deep in the throes of a shooting slump, the cellar-dwelling Badgers have dropped all but one of its Big Ten games this season while Michigan is 5-5.

The Badgers had a .291 average at Madison Saturday in losing to the Gophers and shot only .218 in bowing to Illinois earlier in the week.

Only 8 of 21

Coach "Bud" Foster is concerned mostly with re-erecting the misplaced shooting eyes, both from the floor and on the free throw line. Against the Gophers Wisconsin made good on only eight of 21 free tosses.

A pleasant aspect has been the play of Dale Hackbart, who is also quite a football quarterback. He led Badger scoring against Minnesota with 11 points.

Foster said he may start Hackbart against the Wolverines along with Bob Barneson, Jim Biggs, Bob Serbiak and Rick Murray.

For a while the Badgers made a game of it Saturday, taking a brief early lead and sticking close to the taller Gophers for the first 16 minutes.

Minnesota, with a 23-21 edge, then proceeded to pour in 12 straight points and take a 35-23 advantage at the half. Tom Benson of Superior, Wis., sparked the Gopher spurt with three field goals. Benson wound up with 16 points.

Kentucky '5' Smashes Auburn's Win Streak

3 Conference Representatives are Assured of NCAA Tourney Berths

By The Associated Press

It'll take a bit of parlaying here and there, but with the next six days the NCAA can have as many as 10 more major conference teams all prettily packaged for its championship basketball extravaganza next month.

The major conference representatives make up 17 of the 24 berths for the NCAA's version of basketball's March madness, and so far only three have been decided:

Eastern Kentucky of the Ohio Valley, Texas Christian of the Southwest, and Kansas State of the Big Eight.

Kentucky's Turn
Although six more "at large" entries remain to be named — Marquette is the only one picked so far — it's the conference slate that draws attention, and for good reason. No at-large entry has won the NCAA championship since the ill-fated CCNY club of 1950.

It was Kentucky's turn again last year, and the Wildcats are one of the teams that can learn their fate within a week. Although they smashed Auburn's winning streak at 39 games in a 75-56 show of strength last Saturday night, the Wildcats are still on tenterhooks in the Southeastern conference scramble.

Cross out Auburn, although it shares top spot with Mississippi State at 11-1 to 10-2 for Kentucky. Auburn loses out because it is on NCAA probation. The race closes this week with Mississippi State at Tulane tonight and at Mississippi Saturday. Kentucky plays Alabama tonight and is at Tennessee Saturday.

If Mississippi state holds its edge over Kentucky, the Maroons have the NCAA berth if they want it. They may not because of the Mississippi custom of not playing racial integrated teams. If they refuse, Kentucky gets the nod.

Home Town Player Wins Texas Open

Wesley Ellis, Jr., Catches Leader on Final Round 67

Santonio, Texas —P—Wesley Ellis, Jr., played just across the street from his boyhood home on a course he knew like a book and his closing 4-under — par 67 won the $20,000 Texas open Sunday.

They say the toughest place to win a tournament is in your home town. Ellis, now playing out of Alderess, N. J., had the shots and the determination to crack that jinx. He caught a faltering Bill Johnston, the defending champion from Provo, Utah, in the stretch and took $2,800 first money by two strokes.

Ellis and Johnston were tied going into the final hole. Johnston drove into a creek and wound up with a double bogey five. Ellis rolled in an easy par to make his 72-hole total 276.

Tom Nieporte of Bronxville, N. Y., who had won only $42.68 on the winter tour, turned in a 69 and dined Johnston for runnerup at 278.

Marion Five Wins Northern Division Title

Marion — Marion defeated New London, 90-56, Sunday night here for the championship in the Badger Amateur Basketball association's Northern division playoff.

Marion gained the Northern divisional finals with a 73-57 win over Birnamwood here Saturday night as Terry Balderson scored 27 points for Marion scoring honors. Bahr hit 29 for Marion Sunday. New London trounced Bonduel Saturday.

In a consolation game Sunday Bonduel tripped Birnamwood, 46-41.

4:00 Indoor Mile Seems Near Reality

Hungarian Ace Pushes Delany To 4:02.5 Record

New York — The 4-minute mile indoors was closer to a reality today than ever and the fellow who is on the hot spot is Ron Delany.

After his record-breaking 4:02.5 in the National AAU championships Saturday night in Madison Square garden, the only question that remains is: When will Delany choose to do it?

If he follows his normal modus operandi it will depend on his opposition.

Won't Fight Clock

If Istvan Rozsavolgyi, Brian Hewson and Co. can push him, he'll hit the tape in 4 minutes. But he won't fight the clock. That's certain.

Rozsavolgyi pushed him to his record — breaker in the AAU meet. Ron's listed mark is 4:03.4, set in Chicago last year. Rozsavolgyi, a confident and talented Hungarian, aimed for 4:03 Saturday.

He started to sprint with over two laps to go—almost a quarter of a mile—and Delany had to keep up with him. That, in a nutshell, is how the record was broken.

Parry O'Brien, the Los Angeles banker who holds every world shot put record in the book, bettered his own indoor mark for the 16-pound ball with a 62-11 heave.

Lt. Bill Dellinger of the U.S. Air Force, cut almost seven seconds off the world indoor 3-mile standard with a 13:37 clocking and Bob Backus shattered his own 35-pound weight throw mark with a heave of 66-21.

Boston University's Sensational high jumper John Thomas clears the bar at 7 feet, 1 1/2 inches for a new world's high jump record during the AAU championships in New York Saturday night.

The 17-year-old college freshman is the only person ever to jump seven feet indoors and his achievement in Madison Square Garden topped the world's outdoor record by one-eighth of an inch.

for 4.1 per cent. (The Terrors shot 583 on gift throws).

From the floor, East managed only 27.4 per cent, but this was undoubtedly due in some measure to successful Terror zoning, which kept the visitors to the outside most of the night. The defensively-aggressive Terrors permitted East few easy or unhurried shots.

When foul trouble threatened to shorten the stays of three Terrors relatively early in the game. Coach Dick Emanuel called on his reserves to protect the cushion the starting five had built up—and they came through. Bob Ferrel, Paul Vander Heyden and Harold Lodholz each was burdened with three fouls in the first 11 minutes of play. Ron Reetz, Dave La Violette and Marty Schuitz supplied the capable relief chores.

Reetz ended his home prep career with strong play, as did Roemer and Ferrel. The play-making Roemer, who was typically thrifty with his floor attempts, sank four of his only eight shots—his highest field goal total in the last 13 games.

Roemer, with nine points, was second to Nussbaum, who bedeviled the Red Devils with clever ball handling and bold journeys to the basket. With Vander Heyden having one of his better rebounding nights, the Terrors more than held their own underneath. Lodholz, Reetz, and the short but springy Nussbaum also rebounded strongly.

For East, lanky Bob Wittig, the circuit's No. 3 scorer—and Gabe Biemeret each coined 16 points.

Chuters Close Season With Weekend Split

Defeat Pacelli, Lose to Newman In Final Games

Little Chute — St. John St. John forged ahead in the third frame by hitting 19 while St. John maintained the pace with 17.

Ady Ebben sparked the second half uprising that brought the St. John win as he scored 14 of his 18 points in the last two periods.

Ebben Hits 18

At Wausau, Newman took a 14 to 11 lead after the first period but the Chuters bounced back with 23 in the second frame to lead at the intermission by a 34 to 25 margin.

Newman took the lead back in the third quarter by hitting 26 points while St. John was limited to 14. The final period saw Newman add 19 while the Dutchmen had 18.

Ebben set the scoring pace in that game for the Dutchmen with 10 field goals and three free throws for 23 markers. Gary Versteegen hit 13 and Ed Hammen 12.

Terrors Chill East '5', Meet Oshkosh Friday

goal during that decisive attack, made possible several free throw situations and unruffled Red Devil nerves.

Leads By 14

Ahs went on to a 21-12 quarter's-end lead and ballooned it to 14 points, 30-16, at intermission time. Victims of both AHS harassment and poor shooting, the Red Devils made only one of 13 shots from the field in the second quarter—that by Bill Lamberg 1:03 before the half time rest.

East did its best shooting of the game in the first four minutes of the second half, scoring AHS, 12-4 (three of the goals were scored by Gabe Biemeret) and edged up threateningly to 34-28. But Paul VanderHeyden piled one through after a snappy assist from Roemer, and "Birdie" drove for another to restore the Terror lead to 10 points—the approximate level of the AHS margin for the game's last 12 minutes.

Fast breaks enabled the Terrors to penetrate East's zone consistently and to ring up a creditable shooting average of .364. But, for a handful of misses on "set-ups," the Terrors would have enjoyed a far rosier shooting rate.

However, the Terrors' drive-in deficiency was more than offset by the East's anemic free throwing—12 of 29.

Badger Track Team Nudges Northwestern

Treasury Out to Cut Depreciation Losses

BY SYLVIA PORTER

If you use depreciable property — machinery, cars, factories, etc. — in your business, watch out for a treasury drive to cut your depreciation deductions. The chief weapon of attack is to salvage value you have or haven't been using to compute your depreciation.

Does salvage value affect your depreciation? For an easy clue, consider how you depreciate a $4,000 business car with a 4-year useful life. If you forget salvage value, you deduct $1,000 a year from your taxable income in each of four years. But suppose you can reasonably expect to sell the car for $1,000 at the end of four years. That's its salvage value, and under the law you can depreciate only $3,000 of your cost — which cuts your deductions from $1,000 to $750 a year for four years.

What difference does this make to your pocketbook? If you should take the extra $1,000 of deductions, it would cut your ordinary income tax. Then, on selling the car, you would have a $1,000 profit presumably taxable as a long-term capital gain. In the 50 per cent tax bracket, a businessman would save $500 from the deductions and pay only $250 on the profit for a net cash profit of $250.

No Profit, No Tax. If you didn't take the extra $1,000 of depreciation because it represented salvage value, there would be no $250 tax because there would be no profit on the sale of the car, but neither would there be $1,000 more of deductions to save $500 in taxes. This way, you're out $250.

In addition to hitting businessmen who have been taking no salvage value, the treasury is questioning situations where an actual selling price turns out to be higher than the original estimate of salvage value. And a circuit court is supporting it in this new drive.

When final salvage price tops the original salvage estimate, the businessman has the same advantage of offsetting ordinary deductions with capital gains taxes as when no salvage at all is used. The court says that when the business asset is sold at or near the end of its useful life at above the original salvage estimate, the treasury is justified in using the higher selling price as the salvage value for the year of sale. This may eliminate or minimize the possibility of offsetting capital gains with ordinary deductions.

In 1956, two other important points were made on depreciation. One concerns the 200 per cent declining balance method of depreciation which enables a businessman to start off depreciation at twice the ordinary straight line rate but each year reduces the cost subject to depreciation. The treasury ruled this kind of depreciation ends when the cost of the asset has been reduced by depreciation deductions to its salvage value, but a court now says the treasury is wrong and the 200 per cent declining balance method cannot be limited by salvage value.

Avoid Arguments Under this decision, a businessman who qualifies for and uses the 200 per cent method can avoid arguments about salvage value and, because of the larger depreciation deductions in the earlier years, he also may be able to come up with an ordinary deduction-capital gain break which is possible when the straight line depreciation method is used.

The court made another key point in answering the question: "How long is the useful life of an asset?" The treasury argued and the court agreed the useful life of business assets should be based on each businessman's own experience with such assets, if possible, rather than on some general average figure. If a certain type of car is considered to have a normal useful life of four years, for instance, a businessman who replaces these cars every three years would use three years as his useful life in depreciating the cars.

Incidentally, this opens an odd possibility. A person with a life expectancy of 15 years may buy a new building with a normal useful life of 30 years. Under the treasury court view, he might argue that the useful life of the building to him is only 15 years, thereby doubling the amount of depreciation deduction for each year.

Pittsburgh Police Battle A-C Pickets Pittsburgh — Police men battled nearly 100 pickets today at the north side plant of the strikebound Allis-Chalmers Mfg. company.

Police said at least 24 pickets were arrested. Officers identified the men as members of the United Auto Workers.

No one was hurt in the short melee which broke out after an intra-plant railroad attempted to shuttle two flat cars into a warehouse.

As many as 50 policemen were estimated to have halted the disturbance.

Within a few minutes the most boisterous of the pickets had been hauled off to jail. The train, pushed by a diesel locomotive, left two cars inside the plant. It did not take them out.

Boys Saved From Pacific Tides Seaside, Ore. — Two boys, one injured by a 35-foot fall, were pulled up a rugged 100-foot cliff from an Oregon beach last night in a daring after dark rescue race against incoming Pacific ocean tides.

The two lowered a rope and climbed down the face of the rugged cliff to the beach below, but they were unable to climb back up their wet rope.

One, Charles Kenney, 17, Netarts, Ore., climbed almost to the top, but then started sliding. He slipped faster and faster, finally falling the last 35 feet. He suffered an injured shoulder and a cut hand.

The other, Ron Makinster, 18, Tillamook, Ore., had remained below.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Kangas of Portland, leading a hiking party in the rugged coastal area some 20 miles down the coast from here, saw the boy fall and signaled they would go for help.

A 16-man rescue party reached the area from nearby Neahalem.

Portland Papers Report Advance Answers to Puzzles Portland, Ore. — Portland's two daily newspapers, charging that someone was getting advance answers to their cash-paying crossword puzzle contests, called in the federal bureau of investigation and discontinued the contests.

The contests, received here from national syndicates, provide cash prizes to winners.

The Oregon Journal said that 10 days ago it paid $2,600 to a Portland housewife for an entry she had not submitted. It was that payoff, it said, which disclosed what it called a "nationwide ring of puzzle solution tipsters" operating from Detroit, Mich.

The Oregonian in its report said only that it got its first information of some thing amiss 10 days ago and turned it over to federal authorities. Meanwhile, it said, "new evidence accumulated that the puzzles being published both by this newspaper and by the Oregon Journal, and possibly by other newspapers in other cities, were being subjected to the same sort of attempts."

Turncoat Diplomat Wants to Go Home London — Two London newspapers reported today that Guy Burgess, the British diplomat who went behind the Iron Curtain eight years ago, wants to come home now.

In copyrighted stories, the London Evening Standard and the London Express, both owned by Lord Beaverbrook, reported that Burgess had appeared in Moscow to visiting Prime Minister Macmillan for a "safe conduct" guarantee. They said he wanted to visit his mother.

Youth Sentenced for Giving Minors Beer Orlando, Fla. — A 16-year-old boy was placed on probation for 18 months after Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieghe withheld sentence on a charge of furnishing beer to two girls, aged 16 and 17.

Neenah Youth Pays $20 for Beer, Sign Neenah, Wis. — Gerald D. Pies, 20, 221 Central street, Neenah, has been fined $10 for ignoring a stop sign and $10 for drinking beer in a car while it was moving. He was arrested Feb. 13 in the town of Cicero by county police.

The stop sign offense will cost Pies three points against his driver's record.

James R. Stockowitz, 22, Merrill, is serving a 45-day sentence in the county jail for driving after his license was revoked and for ignoring a stop sign. The latter offense got him five days, driving after revocation 40 days from Acting Municipal Judge Stanley A. Staidl.

Stockowitz will be allowed to work out of the jail under the day parole plan. He chose the 40-day sentence after the court offered him an alternate 3-month suspended sentence with jail if he drove during that time.

Ike Visits Dulles In Army Hospital Washington — President Eisenhower went to Walter Reed army hospital today for another visit with ailing Sec. of State Dulles.

It was Eisenhower's fourth trip to Dulles' bedside since the doctors announced Feb. 14 that the secretary had suffered a recurrence of cancer.

The president left the White House for Walter Reed at 11:30 a.m. shortly after a 75-minute conference with acting Sec. of State Christian A. Herter.

The White House provided no details of Herter's talk with Eisenhower, saying only that they discussed state department business.

Nelson Lists 3 Democrats For President

Kennedy, Stevenson, Humphrey Lead as Presidential Hopefuls

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — The front run for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960 is being made by three men: John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson and Hubert H. Humphrey. Nelson said he has no intention of running as a favor to Sen. Johnson in the Wisconsin primary next spring and that he doesn't believe a favorite son candidate can win. Nelson said he is not interested in winning the Wisconsin primary in April 1960, election.

There has been some guarded talk among Sen. William Proxmire's friends that the Wisconsin junior senator may be a dark horse candidate and that a slate of delegates may be entered for him on the state ballot.

Close Friends
Gov. Nelson during the last 10 years has had close personal relationships with Sen. Humphrey and Stevenson, the party's nominee in 1952 and 1956. He said he's heard a good deal about the popularity of Kennedy. Nelson said he is resolved not to take sides in the preliminary campaigns of the candidates and has not decided whether he wants to go to the convention next year as a Wisconsin voting delegate.

He has been a delegate to the last two conventions and, in 1952, when he backed Kefauver and the convention chose Stevenson, he was chairman of the Wisconsin delegation.

At the press conference today, a reporter asked Nelson for comment on Sen. Proxmire's recent attack upon Sen. Lyndon Johnson, the Democratic majority leader in the U. S. senate.

The governor laughed and said, "I'm glad to have him with me."

The reference was to the fact that Nelson in one of his first acts as a candidate for the governorship a year ago listed the Texas senator as a representative of the conservative forces in the party.

Marooned Family Saved After 3 Days Within Sight of City

BY CONRAD CASLER
Corpus Christi, Texas—The little diary of Lesle Schmidt and his young family, marooned three days last week on a tiny beacon in Corpus Christi bay, lived to tell about it.

Leslie 23, wrote a pathetic little diary to let relatives know what happened to them. He "knew" he and his wife and three children would die there within sight of the shore he said yesterday.

"We wrote the diary so that when they found our bones on the light, just 7 miles away, they'd know what happened," he said at the hospital.

Schmidt said at the hospital that his wife, Sarah, 26, and the children — Lesle, 3, Linda, 2, and Cheryll, 10 months — are recovering.

Crewmen of a passing ship, the Corral Ancho, on an abortive commercial fishing venture, snatched the hungry, cold and sick family from the tiny

Honeck Okayed 1-Year Budget, Nelson Says

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Madison — Gov. Nelson today fired back at his Republican critics in the state legislature with the disclosure of a new program then former attorney general of the state a Republican, a practical way of giving full effect to the 1-year budget program last November.

Nelson issued a public statement in response to claims of the GOP that the state faces a critical dilemma resulting from a combination of increased government demands for service and static tax receipts.

Nelson said the state faces a critical dilemma resulting from a combination of increased government demands for service and static tax receipts.

Democratic Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds said the program is legal, although it contradicts the traditional practice of biennial appropriations.

Today Nelson disclosed that from new or expanded sources of state revenue, he is planning to pay for the state's increased demands for service.

Nelson also repeated he is not planning to ask for such a plan.

Reynolds said he will ask for such a plan.

Nelson said the state senate probably will not pass such a plan.

The governor repeated his opposition to individual income tax, a state general sales tax and a state estate tax.

Cruiser Breaks Up
"That captain," said Mrs. Schmidt, "we don't even know his name. Couldn't give the children enough milk."

The Schmidts scrambled onto the light, just 7 miles from downtown Corpus Christi, Wednesday after their 26-foot cabin cruiser broke up in the heavy seas that lashed Corpus Christi bay. The unemphatic Schmidt was returning to Port Aransas from Port Mansfield after going there on an abortive commercial fishing venture.
